development are significant as the author demonstrates in his chapter on systematic philosophy This comparison is not just of historical interest It is meant to contribute to a better understanding between the East and the West The author provides a basis for future discussions by establishing a common area of inquiry and by demonstrating a convergence of viewpoints already in regard to these problems The author also discusses the potential role of the ideas of Solovyev and Scheler in the formation of a consciousness which he sees now emerging in the Soviet Union a consciousness critical of any misrepresentation both of non Marxist Russian philosophy as well as of Western philosophy in general In regard to the translation itself three things should be mentioned First of all the distinction between the important German words Sein and Seiendes is often difficult to preserve in translation Unless otherwise noted all references to being refer to Seiendes Second the abbreviations of the works of Solovyev and Scheler used in the footnotes are clarified in the summary of the works of these authors found on page 31
