Congress, 2017-10. Chemical Engineering Progress, 1991. Digital Activism in Zimbabwe Tenford Chitanana, 2024-10-21. This book investigates the role of the internet and social media in political processes in non-western and non-democratic contexts. Using Zimbabwe as a case study, the book demonstrates how activists and ordinary people deploy social media, particularly Facebook, to subvert an enduring hegemonic state. However, the book also highlights how authoritarian regimes are in turn learning and adapting to the information age, challenging the impact of digital activism. Studies of digital activism in the Global South are often centred around democracy, but this book paints a more complex picture, examining the role and effect of digital activism in challenging state hegemony in authoritarian contexts. The book notes that while communication technologies help mediate activism, they are also simultaneously constrained by pre-existing and emergent challenges tied to the social and political context and the inherent limitations of those technologies. The book investigates the tactics used by digital activists, the contextual factors and restrictive political environment they operate in, including the role of pro-government activists, and ultimately the impact of digital activism given these constraints. From the case of Zimbabwe, the book builds out a broader theoretical analysis of the evolution of third-world protest in the digital age, examining the limitations of activists' actions and the ideological deficit in online activism to ferment a virulent counter-hegemony.

Brexit Geographies Mark Boyle, Ronan Paddison, Peter Shirlow, 2020-06-29. This comprehensive volume explores the political, social, economic and geographical implications of Brexit within the context of an already divided UK state. It demonstrates how support for Brexit not only sharpened differences within England and between the separate nations comprising the UK state but also reflected how austerity politics, against which the referendum was conducted, impacted differently with north and south, urban and rural, becoming embroiled in the Leave vote. This book explores how, as the process of negotiating the secession of the UK from the EU was to demonstrate, the seemingly intractable problem of the Irish border and the need to maintain a soft border provided a continuing obstacle to a smooth transition. The authors in this book also explore various other profound questions that have been raised by Brexit: questions of citizenship, of belonging, of the probable impacts of Brexit for key economic sectors including agriculture and its meaning for gender politics. The book also brings to the forefront how the UK was geographically imagined, a new lexicon of left-behind places, citizens of somewhere and citizens of nowhere, conjuring up new imaginations of the spaces and places making up the UK. This book draws out the wider implications of Brexit for a refashioned geography. It was originally published as a special issue of the journal Space and Polity.
