La Bête Humaine:

La Bête humaine Émile Zola, 2009-01-29 Did possessing and killing amount to the same thing deep within the dark recesses of the human beast La Bête humaine 1890 is one of Zola's most violent and explicit works On one level a tale of murder passion and possession it is also a compassionate study of individuals derailed by atavistic forces beyond their control Zola considered this his most finely worked novel and in it he powerfully evokes life at the end of the Second Empire in France where society seemed to be hurtling into the future like the new locomotives and railways it was building While expressing the hope that human nature evolves through education and gradually frees itself of the burden of inherited evil he is constantly reminding us that under the veneer of technological progress there remains always the beast within This new translation captures Zola's fast paced yet deliberately dispassionate style while the introduction and detailed notes place the novel in its social historical and literary context ABOUT THE SERIES For over 100 years Oxford World's Classics has made available the widest range of literature from around the globe Each affordable volume reflects Oxford's commitment to scholarship providing the most accurate text plus a wealth of other valuable features including expert introductions by leading authorities helpful notes to clarify the text up to date bibliographies for further study and much more

La Bête Humaine Emile Zola, Jean Renoir, Jean Gabin, Simone Simon, 1938 The Monomaniac Émile Zola, 2021-12-02 The Monomaniac narrates Jacques Lantieri's perpetual yet ultimately catastrophic descent into a maelstrom of madness unfolding upon the railroads between Paris and Le Havre during the late 19th Century The protagonist Lantieri a deputy station master by day suspects his wife of infidelity by night Tormented by memories of events that occurred many years ago Lantieri resolves to excavate the past piece by piece but little does he know what sort of skeletons he is going to unleash from the proverbial closet Nor does he bear an inkling of the unfathomable repercussions of his actions The Monomaniac is a fast paced and suspenseful psychological thriller casting light on the dark passions simmering underneath the surface of every human being and exploring how accompanied by even darker emotions these passions may lead to a man's untimely demise if not held in restraint before it is too late Beloved by fans of 19th Century French literature and true crime alike this gripping tale based on a real life account is bound to haunt you long after you have turned the final page Widely regarded as the founding father of scientific naturalism in literature which aimed to describe things as they really were at the time Zola was considered an influence by many prominent artists and writers of his time and the coming era such as Vincent van Gogh Tom Wolfe and John Steinbeck

Émile Zola 1840-1902 was a French novelist journalist playwright and pioneer of French naturalism making him one of France's most significant and prolific writers in the 19th century alongside Balzac His fascination with the human condition and going above and beyond realism led him to important literary topics such as violence and its repercussions alcoholism prostitution and domestic abuse His most celebrated works include Germinal Nana and Work and over twenty of his novels are a part of a collection named Les Rougon-Macquart Zola was nominated twice for the

Nobel Prize in Literature and many of his works have been filmed mile Zola s 1890 novel La B te Humaine was adapted into a film directed by Jean Renoir in 1938 Although the story is quite bleak with several murders and a final death it is oddly fascinating The movie performances by Jean Gabin and Simone Simon are outstanding and portray great humanity I created twelve monotype printed on pages of a French edition of the novel I followed the storyline from the film La B te Humaine and not the novel which Renoir changed Viewing the prints in sequence tells the altered story The printed pages are assembled in an accordion format and reattached to the original cover which has an original book jacket Prospectus The Monomaniac Edward Vizetelly, 2020 The Monomaniac Émile Zola, 1902 A Critical and Historical Study of Zola's La Bête Humaine Martin Kanes, 1979 French Film Susan Hayward, Ginette Vincendeau, 2014-04-23

Well what are you thinking about She started gave a little shudder as if surprised and trembled with alarm Oh of nothing she answered But you are not eating Have you lost your appetite he inquired Oh no you ll see she replied S verine having emptied her glass of white wine finished the slice of p t on her plate But there was a cry of alarm They had eaten the small loaf not amouthful remained for the cheese They clamoured then laughed and finally afterdisturbing everything found a piece of stale bread at the back of the sideboardcupboard of Mother Victoire Although the window was open it continued very warm and the young woman seated with her back to the stove could not get refreshed and she had becomemore rosy and excited by the unforeseen talkative lunch in this room Speaking of Mother Victoire

Roubaud had returned to Grandmorin there was another who owed him a famous debt of gratitude The mother of a child who had died she became wet nurse to S verine whose birth had sent her mamma into the grave Later on as wife of a fireman of the company who spent all he earned in drink she was leading a wretched existence in Paris by the aid of a little sewing when happening to meet her foster daughter the former intimacy had been renewed while the President at the same time took her under his protection He had now obtained for her the post of attendant at the lavatory for ladies The company gave her no more than 100 frs but she made nearly 1 400 frs out of the gratuities without counting the lodging this room where they were lunching and her coals Indeed she had a most comfortable post And Roubaud calculated that if Pecqueux the husband had brought home the 2 800 frs which he earned as fireman wages and gratuities together instead of running riot at both ends of the line they would have had between them more than 4 000 frs a year double what he received as assistant station master at Havre In the meanwhile their sharp hunger had become appeased and they dawdled over the rest of the meal cutting the cheese into small pieces to make the feast last longer Conversation also flagged By the way said he why did you decline the invitation of the President to go to Doinville for two or three days In the comfort of a good digestion he had just been running over in his mind the incidents of their visit in the morning to the mansion in the Rue du Rocher quite close to the station he had seen himself again in the large stern study and he again heard the President telling them that he was leaving on the morrow for Doinville Then as if acting on a sudden impulse the latter had suggested taking the 6 30 express with them that evening and conducting his god daughter on a visit to his sister who had been wanting to see her for a long time But the young woman had given all kinds of reasons which prevented her she said from accepting the invitation For my part he remarked I saw no inconvenience in this little trip You might have remained there till Thursday I should have been able to manage without you don't you think so We have need of them in our position It is rather silly to show indifference to their politeness and the more so as your refusal seemed to cause him real pain And that was why I never ceased pressing you to accept until you tugged at my coat and then I spoke as you did but without understanding what it meant Eh why wouldn't you go S verine with restless eyes gave a gesture of impatience How could I leave you all alone she exclaimed
