Review /Summary Questions:

1. What are some possible sources that a hair designer can use for inspiration?

Answer: pp. 284-285

A great hair designer can gain inspiration from movies, television, magazines, videos, people on the street, or anywhere. But, of course, nature is another excellent place to get inspiration, especially with colors, shapes, and movement.

2. What are the five elements of design?

The five design elements are line, form, space, design texture, and hair color.

3. What are the five principles of design?

Answer: pp. 290-293

The five design principles are proportion, balance, rhythm, emphasis, and harmony.

4. What influences does hair type have on a hairstyle?

Answer: p.293

All hair has natural wave patterns that must be considered before the stylist begins to work on a client's hair. These patterns can be straight, wavy, curly, or extremely curly. Another characteristic of the hair is its texture, which can be fine, medium, or coarse. Wave patterns and hair texture make up our hair structure and density.

So, with the above facts in mind, the stylist has to know our hair characteristics to determine what type of products to use, what kind of thermal heating process to use, and maybe help design a pleasing, long-lasting style that the client can maintain at home.

5. List and describe the seven facial shapes and explain how hair design can highlight or camouflage facial features.

Answer: pp.296-298

*Oval:

1. Ideal for evaluating all other facial shapes.
2. Forehead is slightly wider than the chin.
