A Foreigner's Cinematic Dream of Japan Iris Haukamp, 2020-11-26 In early 1936 a German film team arrived in Japan to participate in a film coproduction intended to show the real Japan to the world and to launch Japanese films into international markets The two directors one Japanese and the other German clashed over the authenticity of the represented Japan and eventually directed two versions The Samurai's Daughter and New Earth based on a common script The resulting films hold a firm place in film history as an exercise in or reaction against politically motivated propaganda respectively A Foreigner's Cinematic Dream of Japan contests the resulting oversimplification into nationalised and politicised dichotomies Drawing on a wide range of Japanese and German original sources as well as a comparative analysis of the German Japanese version and the elusive Japanese English version Iris Haukamp reveals the complexities of this international co production This exclusive research sheds light not only on the films themselves but also on the timeframe of its production with both countries at the brink of war

Filmonomics André de Palma, Luc Leruth, 2025-04-08 What could movies as diverse as The Last Samurai Cl o from 5 to 7 or Dr Strangelove have in common Filmonomics has a simple yet intriguing answer economics as the main driving force of the plot or as the main motivation of the characters actions This book analyses how movie makers use economic and financial motives in their plots or to build their characters Have they done it in line with economic theory Or are they proposing a new angle a new perspective that economists should take note of The authors here do not discuss wages in the film industry or the economics of movies What interests them is the economic motivations underpinning the behaviour of fictional characters in their favourite films They argue that credible movie characters can behave in irrational ways and movie makers occasionally introduce new ideas that economists should take note of A unique contribution this book will be of interest to readers eager to discover what economists have to say about films and film directors It will be indispensable for students and researchers of economics media studies film studies and cultural studies
