South African Schooling: The Enigma of Inequality Nic Spaull, Jonathan D. Jansen, 2019-11-05 This volume brings together many of South Africa's leading scholars of education and covers the full range of South African schooling from financing and policy reform to in depth discussions of literacy numeracy teacher development and curriculum change The book moves beyond a historical analysis and provides an inside view of the questions South African scholars are now grappling with Are there different and preferential equilibria we have not yet thought of or explored and if so what are they In practical terms how does one get to a more equitable distribution of teachers resources and learning outcomes While decidedly local these questions resonate throughout the developing world South Africa today is the most unequal country in the world The richest 10% of South Africans lay claim to 65% of national income and 90% of national wealth This is the largest 90/10 gap in the world and one that is reflected in the schooling system Two decades after apartheid it is still the case that the life chances of most South African children are determined not by their ability or the result of hard work and determination but instead by the colour of their skin the province of their birth and the wealth of their parents Looking back on almost three decades of democracy in South Africa it is this stubbornness of inequality and its patterns of persistence that demands explanation justification and analysis This is a landmark book on basic education in South Africa an essential volume for those interested in learning outcomes and their inequality in South Africa The various chapters present conceptually and empirically sophisticated analyses of learning outcomes across divisions of race class and place The book brings together the wealth of decades of research output from top quality researchers to explore what has improved what has not and why Prof Lant Pritchett Harvard University There is much wisdom in this collection from many of the best education analysts in South Africa No surprise that they conclude that without a large and sustained expansion in well trained teachers early childhood education and adequate school resources South Africa will continue to sacrifice its people's future to maintaining the privileges of the few Prof Martin Carnoy Stanford University Altogether one can derive from this very valuable volume if not an exact blueprint for the future then certainly at least a crucial and evidence based itinerary for the next few steps Dr Luis Crouch RTI

The Monopolists Mary Pilon,2015-02-17 The Monopolists reveals the unknown story of how Monopoly came into existence the reinvention of its history by Parker Brothers and multiple media outlets the lost female originator of the game and one man s lifelong obsession to tell the true story about the game s questionable origins Most think it was invented by an unemployed Pennsylvanian who sold his game to Parker Brothers during the Great Depression in 1935 and lived happily and richly ever after That story however is not exactly true Ralph Anspach a professor fighting to sell his Anti Monopoly board game decades later unearthed the real story which traces back to Abraham Lincoln the Quakers and a forgotten feminist named Lizzie Magie who invented her nearly identical Landlord's Game more than thirty years before Parker Brothers sold their version of Monopoly. Her game underpinned by morals that were the exact opposite of what Monopoly represents today was embraced by a constellation of left wingers from the Progressive Era through the Great Depression including members of Franklin Roosevelt's famed Brain Trust. A gripping social history of corporate greed that illuminates the cutthroat nature of American business over the last century. The Monopolists reads like the best detective fiction told through Monopoly's real life winners and losers.

The Standing of Vocational Education and the Occupations It Serves Stephen Billett, Barbara Elisabeth Stalder, Vibe Aarkrog, Sarojni Choy, Steven Hodge, Anh Hai Le, 2022-04-21 This book addresses what is perhaps the single most important issue for vocational education: its relatively low standing in an era of high aspiration. The work explores the nature, extent, and consequences for an educational sector that whilst having an increasingly important role in contemporary societies is seen to be of low standing across both countries with developed and developing economies. Some of the standing is associated with the occupation it serves and this is highlighted in an era of high aspiration by young people and their parents. The consequences are far reaching. This includes how governments and community view and support vocational education; parents and familiars advise about participation in it; and young people's decision making associated with their post school pathways. More than describing this problem, the focus of this collection is how this issue can be redressed through the actions of supra government agencies, governments, schools, tertiary education institutions, industry, and professional bodies and employers. It sets out the quality and extent of societal sentiments in shaping how vocational education and the occupation it serves are projected across countries, continents, and cultures, and offers a range of perspectives and contributions from scholars on how this issue might be redressed. These contributions are drawn together and synthesised into sets of propositions, practices, and approaches directed towards governments, schooling, and tertiary education institutions, educators, researchers, industry, and professional bodies and employers. In this way, the book seeks to provide an authoritative, seminal, comprehensive, and central text to understand and respond to this central issue for vocational education.

Capital and the Common Good Georgia Levenson Keohane, 2016-09-27 Despite social and economic advances around the world, poverty and disease persist, exacerbated by the mounting challenges of climate change, natural disasters, political conflict, mass migration, and economic inequality. While governments commit to addressing these challenges, traditional public and philanthropic dollars are not enough. Here, innovative finance has shown a way forward. By borrowing techniques from the world of finance, we can raise capital for social investments today. Innovative finance has provided polio vaccines to children in the DRC, crop insurance to farmers in India, pay as you go solar electricity to Kenyans, and affordable housing and transportation to New Yorkers. It has helped governmental, commercial, and philanthropic resources meet the needs of the poor and underserved and build a more sustainable and inclusive prosperity. Capital and the Common Good shows how market failure in one context can be solved with market solutions from another an expert in securitization bundles future development aid into bonds to pay for vaccines today an entrepreneur turns a mobile phone into an array of financial services for the unbanked and policy makers adapt pay for success models from the world of infrastructure to human services like early childhood education maternal health and job training Revisiting the successes and missteps of these efforts Georgia Levenson Keohane argues that innovative finance is as much about incentives and sound decision making as it is about money When it works innovative finance gives us the tools motivation and security to invest in our shared future Yearbook of International Organizations 2013-2014 (Volume 3) Union Of International

Office of Management and Budget,2014 Assessing Contexts of Learning Susanne Kuger,Eckhard Klieme,Nina Jude,David Kaplan,2016-12-05 This volume brings together educational effectiveness research and international large scale assessments demonstrating how the two fields can be applied to inspire and improve each other and providing readers direct links to instruments that cover a broad range of topics and have been shown to work in more than 70 countries The book s initial chapters introduce and summarize recent discussions and developments in the conceptualization implementation and evaluation of international large scale context assessments and provide an outlook on possible future developments Subsequently three thematic sections Student Background Outcomes of Education Beyond Achievement and Learning in Schools each present a series of chapters that provide the conceptual background for a wide range of important topics in education research policy and practice Each chapter defines a conceptual framework that relates recent findings in the educational effectiveness research literature to current issues in education policy and practice These frameworks were used to develop interesting and relevant indicators that may be used for meaningful reporting from international assessments other cross cultural research or national studies Using the example of one particular survey the Programme for International Student Assessment PISA 2015 this volume links all theoretical considerations to fully developed questionnaire material that was field trailed and evaluated in questionnaires for students and their parents as well as teachers and principals in their schools The primary purposes of this book are to inform readers about how education effectiveness research and international large scale assessments are already interacting to inform research and policymaking to identify areas where a closer collaboration of both fields or input from other areas could further improve this work to provide sound theoretical frameworks for future work in both fields and finally to relate these theoretical debates to currently available and evaluated material for future context assessments Subverting Consumerism Robert Crocker,Keri Chiveralls,2018-07-24 There is now a widespread interest in reuse in many domains from opera houses built over old warehouses to vintage clothes and everyday goods incorporating repurposed materials or parts Despite its ubiquity this extensive creative work is typically seen in narrowly environmental terms as a means of reducing carbon resource use or waste However as this volume shows reuse also has aesthetic and cultural dimensions and a rich social currency invoked to consciously subvert the accelerated consumer culture responsible for our unfolding environmental crisis In three parts the essays in this book consider reuse in terms of values aesthetics and meaning its application in contemporary urban and spatial settings and the revival of social practices involving a more conscious recourse to reuse and repair These are bookended by the editors essays the first on the significant relationship between reuse and technological and social acceleration evident in the surrounding consumer society and the last on the multiple forms of reuse deployed in a contemporary alternative building practice and their contributions to presenting alternative ways of living in the world

Challenging dominant understandings of waste and consumption Subverting Consumerism shows how reuse has become a means for many to creatively engage with the past and to discover a continuity and sense of place eroded by the accelerative regimes of contemporary consumerism

Becoming a means of resistance and offering a range of aesthetic social and economic possibilities reuse can be found to subvert and challenge the obsessive quest for the new found in contemporary consumerism

Restoring the Promise Richard K. Vedder, 2019-05-01 Higher education in America is in crisis Costs are too high learning is too little and the payoff to students and society is increasingly problematic In Restoring the Promise Richard Vedder shows how the precarious position of colleges and universities results from a mostly unsuccessful expansion of governmental involvement in the academy especially at the federal level The book examines today's most serious issues in higher education including free speech and academic freedom tuition and other costs culture and curricula governance gender race and diversity due process admissions student loans and much more It diagnoses problems and identifies solutions For example the total cost of college per student in the United States is now higher than in any other country When combining the monetary costs of college with the opportunity costs of losing years of labor to the economy the true cost of higher education to American society well exceeds one trillion dollars annually Yet despite American higher education's immense price tag students are learning less than ever before and continue to be underemployed The book discusses the three I's of university reform information incentives and innovation Without information it is impossible for taxpayers and governing authorities to ensure that public education spending truly furthers the broader interests of society rather than the narrow interests of faculty and administrators Shaping incentives for management would help to reduce costs and improve quality Business practices such as Responsibility Centered Management RCM for example allow profit to motivate efficiency and encourage learning outcomes And expanding the use of innovation in technology and open online courses along with relinquishing old rules such as tenure and three month summer vacations offer new hope for institutions of higher education The book discusses such additional reforms as the following Ending or revising the federal student financial aid program Giving departments or even professors a share of overall revenue based on student enrollments in their classes Departments or professors would then be required to pay their share of travel building rental maintenance utilities and other such costs from the revenues they receive Providing earnings data on former students by college five ten or fifteen years after matriculation Prospective students and parents as well as lawmakers and oversight officials would be assisted regarding school successes and failures Increasing faculty teaching loads Instituting three year degrees and year round instruction Ending discrimination against for profit schools Ending grade inflation Ending speech codes and other barriers to academic freedom Ending affirmative action and related diversity programs And more      Scientific and Technical
