Flood and Coastal Erosion Risk Management Edmund Penning-Rowsell, Sally Priest, Dennis Parker, Joe Morris, Sylvia Tunstall, Christophe Viavattene, John Chatterton, Damon Owen, 2014-01-03 A new Multi Coloured Manual This book is a successor to and replacement for the highly respected manual and handbook on the benefits of flood and coastal risk management produced by the Flood Hazard Research Centre at Middlesex University UK with support from Defra and the Environment Agency It builds upon a previous book known as the multi coloured manual 2005 which itself was a synthesis of the blue 1977 red 1987 and yellow manuals 1992 As such it expands and updates this work to provide a manual of assessment techniques of flood risk management benefits indirect benefits and coastal erosion risk management benefits It has three key aims First it provides methods and data which can be used for the practical assessment of schemes and policies Secondly it describes new research to update the data and improve techniques Thirdly it explains the limitations and complications of Benefit Cost Analysis to guide decision making on investment in river and coastal risk management schemes

Food Production and Nature Conservation Iain J. Gordon, Herbert H.T. Prins, Geoff R. Squire, 2016-11-25 Feeding the world's growing human population is increasingly challenging especially as more people adopt a western diet and lifestyle Doing so without causing damage to nature poses an even greater challenge This book argues that in order to create a sustainable food supply whilst conserving nature agriculture and nature must be reconnected and approached together The authors demonstrate that while the links between nature and food production have to some extent already been recognized until now the focus has been to protect one from the impacts of the other Instead it is argued that nature and agriculture can and should work together and ultimately benefit from one another Chapters describe efforts to protect nature through globally connected protected area systems and illustrate how farming methods are being shaped to protect nature within agricultural systems The authors also point to many ways in which nature benefits agriculture through the ecosystem services it provides Overall the book shows that nature conservation and food production must be considered as equally important components of future solutions to meet the global demand for food in a manner that is sustainable for both the human population and the planet as a whole

The Responsive University and the Crisis in South Africa ,2021-05-31 Around the world higher education is faced with a fundamental question what is the basis for our claim of societal legitimacy In this book the authors go beyond the classical response regarding teaching research and community engagement Instead the editor puts forward the proposition that the answer lies in responsiveness the extent to which universities respond or fail to respond to societal challenges Moreover because of its intractable legacy issues and crisis of inequality the question regarding the societal legitimacy of universities is particularly clearly manifested in South Africa one of the most unequal countries in the world The Responsive University brings together contributions on the issue of responsiveness from a number of international university leaders half of them specifically addressing the South African situation within the context of the international situation as presented by the other authors In the global discussion about the role of universities in society this book provides a conceptual framework for a way forward

Enabling regulatory frameworks for contract farming Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2019-03-11

FAO's previous contribution to the development of contract farming saw the publication in 2015 of the UNIDROIT FAO IFAD Legal Guide on Contract Farming which focused on the bilateral relationship between an agricultural producer and a contractor This Legislative Study develops that research and focuses on the regulatory frameworks for contract farming aiming to highlight different possible approaches for different contexts Responsible contract farming can be a powerful tool for small scale farmers in developing countries to move towards larger scale commercial production It can create economic wealth contribute to supply chain efficiency through the production of higher quantities of better quality products and contribute to achieving domestic food security objectives Maximizing these benefits while minimizing the inherent risks of contract farming is reliant upon the forging of an enabling environment a key part of which is the domestic regulatory framework This Legislative Study provides guidance to domestic regulators and other interested readers on how to appraise and potentially reform domestic regulatory frameworks to achieve responsible contract farming Recognising that different countries and contextual realities may benefit from different regulatory solutions this Study provides several examples supported by representative case studies on how contract farming can be regulated without promoting a single solution as the most appropriate Please visit FAO's Contract Farming Resource Centre <http://www.fao.org/in-action/contract-farming/en> which is a regularly updated website hosting a variety of material on contract farming both from FAO and from other recognized authors
