Grade Theory Geography P2012 And 2014:

Assessment in Geographical Education: An International Perspective Theresa Bourke, Reece Mills, Rod Lane, 2022-02-27

In recent years there has been increased attention paid to the importance of assessment in Geographical Education the chosen subject for this book Assessment is an important tool for collecting information about student learning and for providing timely data to inform key stakeholders including students teachers parents and policymakers To be effective assessment needs to be valid reliable and fair Validity is about ensuring that we assess what we claim we are assessing Reliability is about measuring performance and understanding in a consistent way Without validity and reliability assessment is unlikely to provide equitable opportunities for students to demonstrate what they know and can do As geography educators it is therefore important that we identify the core concepts and skills in geography that we want students to master We need a clear understanding of what the progression of learning looks like for each concept and skill so we can develop fit for purpose assessments that track and improve student learning While there is a substantial literature on evidence based assessment in secondary school contexts research exploring best practice assessment in geography is rare This is a concern given the distinctive nature of geography and the important role of assessment in the learning process This scholarly collection seeks to address this issue by connecting research in educational assessment with the domain of geography The chapters are written by leading researchers in Geographical Education from across the globe These chapters provide examples of innovation through the collective voices of geography teacher educator scholars from across Australia USA South Korea Germany Switzerland and Singapore What unifies the work in this book is that each chapter focuses on a key feature of the discipline of geography providing scholarly examples of evidence based practices for assessing student s knowledge and skills

Critical Resource Theory Leslie S. Kaplan, William A.

Owings, 2022-09-22 Critical Resource Theory CReT offers an innovative critical perspective on education funding This new conceptual lens enables school leaders and policy makers to analyze quantitatively school funding policies and practices as a catalyst to make them more equitable It offers a useful orientation and tool to increase fairness and opportunity in a society that systemically advantages the dominant group with ample resources while it disadvantages others by withholding them Presenting a balance between the theoretical and its practical application to improve educational outcomes for marginalized children chapters introduce and discuss this new extension of Critical Theory validate it as a value added and complete theory place it within a broader philosophical framework and construct its historical social political and educational contexts Designed for use in school finance and educational policy courses this book presents an analytical tool that leaders scholars and policy makers can use to alter how they view public funding policies and practices to question their assumptions about funding and resource allocations look for identify and assess inadequacies and inequities share their findings and use these data to shape policy recommendations for increased fiscal fairness and improved student outcomes Wine and

Economics Denton Marks,2015-02-27 What is distinctive about the economics of wine Wine s health benefits stir debate but many appreciate life enhancing qualities from its production and enjoyment Few products enjoy such wide distribution rich history and interest The Neoliberalization of Creativity Education Nadine M. Kalin,2018-01-11 This book contemplates creativity education within the context of the neoliberal capitalist economy In the current crisis of creativity where we are required to be creative in an environment of entrepreneurialisation the author analyses what creativity has become and what has been lost in various recent transitional periods Calling for recommitment towards the politics of critical creativity for the public good the author argues for an education that resists the ideologies of neoliberalism so that creativity may still be harnessed to rethink society Inciting readers to conceive of alternate forms of creativity and associated education this innovative book will appeal to educators practitioners creators and learners searching for inspiration beyond creative destruction Community-Owned Transport Leigh Glover,2016-11-03 City and state governments around the world are struggling to achieve environmentally sustainable transport Economic technological city and transport planning and human behaviour solutions are often hampered by ineffective implementation So attention is now turning to institutional governmental and political barriers Approaches to these implementation problems assume that transport ownership can only be public owned by state entities or private corporate or personal Another option largely unexplored to date is communal ownership of transport Community Owned Transport proposes and develops the notion that communal ownership has a historical basis and provides unique opportunities for providing personal mobility It looks at the historical roots of modern urban transport s failings as those of technological change and the associated governing of transport systems particularly the role of public sector institutions Community ownership is explored through the new sharing economy developments car sharing ridesharing and bicycle share schemes and older social innovations in ecovillages and communal living Models and practices of community ownership of transport are provided and this study also discusses how community ownership might contribute to sustainable transport Drawing widely on different disciplines and fields of scholarship this book explores the conceptual and practical aspects of communal ownership of transport It will be a valuable resource for those seeking innovative approaches to addressing the pressing problems of transport including graduate and postgraduate students as well as policymakers practitioners and community groups
