The Woman Question in Nineteenth-Century English, German and Russian Literature Kathryn L. Ambrose, 2015-09-29 Kathryn Ambrose offers a new approach to the Woman Question in mid to late nineteenth century English German and Russian literature Using a methodological framework based on feminist theory and post structuralism she provides a re vision of canonical texts such as Jane Eyre Wuthering Heights Middlemarch Effi Briest Fathers and Children and Anna Karenina alongside lesser known works by Emily and Charlotte Bront George Eliot Theodor Storm Theodor Fontane Ivan Turgenev and Leo Tolstoy Her exploration of the semiotics of barriers as opposed to the established approach of the semiotics of space makes for a rewarding reading of this period of literature and establishes new cross cultural and literary connections

Sharpe, 2015-01-30 This lively and lucid introduction to the philosophy of music concentrates on the issues that illuminate musical listening and practice It examines the conceptual debates relevant to the understanding and performing of music and grounds the philosophy to practical matters throughout Ideal for a beginning readership with little philosophical background the author provides an overview of the central debates enlivened by a real sense of enthusiasm for the subject and why it matters The book begins by filling in the historical background and offers readers a succinct summary of philosophical thinking on music from the Ancient Greeks to Eduard Hanslick and Edmund Gurney Chapter 2 explores two central questions what is it that makes music or to be precise some pieces of music works of art And what is the work of music per se Is it just what we hear the performance or is it something over and above that something we invent or discover Chapter 3 discusses a problem peculiar to music and one at the heart of philosophical discussion of it can music have a meaning And if so what can it be Chapter 4 considers whether music can have value Are there features about music that make it good features which can be specified in criteria Is a work good if and only if it meets with the approval of an ideally qualified listener How do we explain differences of opinion Indeed why do we need to make judgements of the relative value of pieces of music at all This engaging and stimulating book will be of interest to students of aesthetics musical practitioners and the general reader looking for a non technical treatment of the subject Confluences John Cullen Gruesser, 2007 Confluences looks at the prospects for and the potential rewards of breaking down theoretical and disciplinary barriers that have tended to separate African American and postcolonial studies John Cullen Gruesser's study emphasizes the confluences among three major theories that have emerged in literary and cultural studies in the past twenty five years postcolonialism Henry Louis Gates Jr's Signifying and Paul Gilroy's Black Atlantic For readers who may not be well acquainted with one or more of the three theories Gruesser provides concise introductions in the opening chapter In addition he urges those people working in postcolonial or African American literary studies to attempt to break down the boundaries that in recent years have come to isolate the two fields Gruesser then devotes a chapter to each theory examining one literary text that illustrates the value of the theoretical model a second text that extends the model in a significant way and a third text that raises one or more questions about the theory His examples are drawn from the writings of Salman Rushdie Jean Rhys V S Naipaul Walter Mosley Pauline Hopkins Toni Morrison Harry Dean Harriet Jacobs and Alice Walker Cautious not to conflate postcolonial and African American studies Gruesser encourages critics to embrace the black Atlantic s emphases on movement through space routes rather than roots and intercultural connections and to expand and where appropriate to emend Gilroy s efforts to bridge the two fields

Creating Identity in the Victorian Fictional Autobiography Heidi L. Pennington, 2018-04-30

This is the first book length study of the fictional autobiography a subgenre that is at once widely recognizable and rarely examined as a literary form with its own history and dynamics of interpretation Heidi L Pennington shows that the narrative form and genre expectations associated with the fictional autobiography in the Victorian period engages readers in a sustained meditation on the fictional processes that construct selfhood both in and beyond the text Through close readings of Jane Eyre David Copperfield and other well known examples of the subgenre Pennington shows how the Victorian fictional autobiography subtly but persistently illustrates that all identities are fictions Despite the subgenre s radical implications regarding the nature of personal identity fictional autobiographies were popular in their own time and continue to inspire devotion in readers This study sheds new light on what makes this subgenre so compelling up to and including in the present historical moment of precipitous social and technological change As we continue to grapple with the existential question of what determines who we really are this book explores the risks and rewards of embracing conscious acts of fictional self production in an unstable world

Constructing the Adolescent Reader in Contemporary Young Adult Fiction

Elisabeth Rose Gruner, 2019-05-17 This book examines the way young adult readers are constructed in a variety of contemporary young adult fictions arguing that contemporary young adult novels depict readers as agents Reading these novels suggest is neither an unalloyed good nor a dangerous ploy but rather an essential occasionally fraught by turns escapist and instrumental deeply pleasurable and highly contentious activity that has value far beyond the classroom skills or the specific content it conveys After an introductory chapter that examines the state of reading and young adult fiction today the book examines novels that depict reading in school gendered and racialized reading reading magical and religious books and reading as a means to developing civic agency These examinations reveal that books for teens depict teen readers as doers and suggest that their ability to read deeply critically and communally is crucial to the development of adolescent agency
