

Chemistry – Unit 6 Worksheet 1

We have observed evidence that atoms of different elements are different, the most noticeable being in their naturally-occurring isotopes. Atoms of different particles exist in their naturally-occurring isotopes. However, when the elements are separated, isotopes of different particles are separated by their composition. The most common isotopes of an element are called "stable" isotopes. The most common isotopes of an element are called "stable" isotopes. We will now examine the patterns that exist for the stable isotopes of elements. These elements are called "stable" isotopes. We will now examine the patterns that exist for the stable isotopes of elements.

1. Write the formula and draw the particle diagram for each compound. The table of atomic numbers is given.
