Learning and Doing Policy Analysis in Education: Examining Diverse Approaches to Increasing Educational Access Maria Teresa Tattu, Justin Bruner, Fida Hussain Chang, Corvell George Cramfield, Tara Miyoko Kintz, Nai-Cheng Kuo, Sandra Kurtti Pylvainen, Andleeb Sharif, 2012-09-17 This book originated in a policy analysis class at Michigan State University taught during 2010 Using Professor Tattu's unique approach to teaching policy analysis the professor and students agreed to construct a class that represented a reflective and grounded experience in the policy analysis of a current and relevant issue with global ramifications we began exploring policies that were developed at the global level and that were implemented locally We investigated the surge of globally developed standards and regulations in an effort to improve education Our goal was to learn cross nationally about policies that seek to reform curriculum and instruction under efficiency and global competitiveness arguments such as Education for All EFA and its USA cousin No Child Left Behind NCLB We knew our work would be bounded by the time available in a one semester class and by resource constraints We did exploratory inquiry supported by literature reviews reports on rigorous research studies and in one case an exploratory case study The policies we chose to explore such as EFA and NCLB offered us the opportunity to examine current reform tendencies that are intended to provide access to quality education for all children the preparation of teachers to support diverse populations the organization of schools to accommodate these children in response to vague policy mandates and power issues affecting the different constituencies and stakeholders The effects of these and other policies were difficult to track because research is scant and decisions are frequently made based on ideology or political persuasion Our purpose was to explore the critical issues that originated such policies and to search for documented evidence regarding policy implementation and effectiveness We investigated the factors that seemed to interfere with successful implementation from conceptual theoretical and methodological perspectives In this class we learned that there are not ready set frameworks for policy analysis but rather that these have to be constructed according to the issues that emerge as policies are conceptualized and implemented to fit local contexts and needs The book pays particular attention to the contexts of policy including the evolving conceptualization of global and local systems of governance knowledge regimes and policy spaces The book is designed for faculty and doctoral students in education who are interested in understanding diverse frameworks for policy analysis and for those in the general public who are interested in the policies we analyze here

Government Reports Announcements & Index ,1984 From Parents to Children John Ermisch,Markus Jantti,Timothy M. Smeeding,2012-05-01 Does economic inequality in one generation lead to inequality of opportunity in the next In From Parents to Children an esteemed international group of scholars investigates this question using data from ten countries with differing levels of inequality The book compares whether and how parents resources transmit advantage to their children at different stages of development and sheds light on the structural differences among countries that may influence intergenerational mobility How and why is economic mobility higher in some countries than in others The contributors find that inequality in mobility relevant skills emerges early in childhood in all of the countries studied Bruce Bradbury and his coauthors focus on learning readiness among young children and show that as early as age five large disparities in cognitive and other mobility relevant skills develop between low and high income kids particularly in the United States and the United Kingdom Such disparities may be mitigated by investments in early childhood education as Christelle Dumas and Arnaud Lefranc demonstrate They find that universal pre school education in France lessens the negative effect of low parental SES and gives low income children a greater shot at social mobility Katherine Magnuson Jane Waldfogel and Elizabeth Washbrook find that income based gaps in cognitive achievement in the United States and the United Kingdom widen as children reach adolescence Robert Haveman and his coauthors show that the effect of parental income on test scores increases as children age and in both the United States and Canada having parents with a higher income betters the chances that a child will enroll in college As economic inequality in the United States continues to rise the national policy conversation will not only need to address the devastating effects of rising inequality in this generation but also the potential consequences of the decline in mobility from one generation to the next Drawing on unparalleled international datasets From Parents to Children provides an important first step

Scotland and the Times higher education supplement Towards a New Primary Curriculum for South Africa Carol A. Macdonald, 1993 Since 1979 Act 90 The Education and Training Act South Africa's law has stated that an official language i.e English or Afrikaans could be used as the medium of instruction after Std 2 fourth grade in black education Almost without exception English was chosen by the primary schools This means that most children are introduced to the new subjects of history science and geography through the medium of English These subjects are encapsulated in textbooks that children find unusable and teachers have difficulty in understanding In 1990 the legislation was amended so that medium of instruction now becomes a matter of negotiation between the Minister of Education and the parents This negotiation is currently under way in many Department of Education and Training schools This change of legislation came as a direct result of research carried out over a period of five years on the Threshold Project 1985-1990 The overt cause of difficulties within the education system would have seemed to be a language policy that traumatises both teachers and pupils Inadequate time and materials are spent preparing children for a change in the medium of learning and the curriculum is not developed carefully enough to lead children to an understanding to a large number of abstract concepts by the fifth year of schooling
