Planning and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility Un-Habitat,2013-10-30 Urban transport systems worldwide are faced by a multitude of challenges Among the most visible of these are the traffic gridlocks experienced on city roads and highways all over the world The prescribed solution to transport problems in most cities has thus been to build more infrastructures for cars with a limited number of cities improving public transport systems in a sustainable manner However a number of challenges faced by urban transport systems such as greenhouse gas emissions noise and air pollution and road traffic accidents do not necessarily get solved by the construction of new infrastructure Planning and Design for Sustainable Urban Mobility argues that the development of sustainable urban transport systems requires a conceptual leap The purpose of transportation and mobility is to gain access to destinations activities services and goods Thus access is the ultimate objective of transportation As a result urban planning and design should focus on how to bring people and places together by creating cities that focus on accessibility rather than simply increasing the length of urban transport infrastructure or increasing the movement of people or goods Urban form and the functionality of the city are therefore a major focus of this report which highlights the importance of integrated land use and transport planning This new report of the United Nations Human Settlements Programme UN Habitat the world s leading authority on urban issues provides some thought provoking insights and policy recommendations on how to plan and design sustainable urban mobility systems The Global Report on Human Settlements is the most authoritative and up to date global assessment of human settlements conditions and trends Preceding issues of the report have addressed such topics as Cities in a Globalizing World The Challenge of Slums Financing Urban Shelter Enhancing Urban Safety and Security Planning Sustainable Cities and Cities and Climate Change

Food and Media Jonatan Leer,Karen Klitgaard Povlsen,2016-06-17 Food is everywhere in contemporary mediascapes as witnessed by the increase in cookbooks food magazines television cookery shows online blogs recipes news items and social media posts about food This mediatization of food means that the media often interplays

between food consumption and everyday practices between private and political matters and between individuals groups and societies This volume argues that contemporary food studies need to pay more attention to the significance of media in relation to how we do food Understanding food media is particularly central to the diverse contemporary social and cultural practices of food where media use plays an increasingly important but also differentiated and differentiating role in both large scale decisions and most people s everyday practices The contributions in this book offer critical studies of food media discourses and of media users interpretations negotiations and uses that construct places and spaces as well as possible identities and everyday practices of sameness or otherness that might form new or renew old food politics Ideology and Meaning-Making under the Putin Regime Marlene Laruelle,2025-01-14 Much has been written to try to understand the ideological characteristics of the current Russian government as well as what is happening inside the mind of Vladimir Putin Refusing pundits clichés that depict the Russian regime as either a cynical kleptocracy or the product of Putin s grand Machiavellian designs Ideology and Meaning Making under the Putin Regime offers a critical genealogy of ideology in Russia today Marlene Laruelle provides an innovative multi method analysis of the Russian regime s ideological production process and the ways it is operationalized in both domestic and foreign policies Ideology and Meaning Making under the Putin Regime reclaims the study of ideology as an unavoidable component of the tools we use to render the world intelligible and represents a significant contribution to the scholarly debate on the interaction between ideas and policy decisions By placing the current Russian regime into a broader context of different strains of strategic culture ideological interest groups and intellectual history this book gives readers key insights into how the Russo Ukrainian War became possible and the role ideology played in enabling it Turkey between Democracy and Authoritarianism Yeşim Arat,Şevket

Atkinson,2024-12-11 Race and Ethnicity Sociology in Action is an innovative text that combines comprehensive coverage of race and ethnicity content with active learning exercises seamlessly integrated into the chapters The book is written by a team of experienced instructors who use active learning techniques in their own classrooms These contributors expertly weave together content material active learning exercises discussion questions real world examples of sociologists in action and information on careers that use sociology The Second Edition includes updated data figures and examples as well as new information on many topics including interracial relationships immigrant groups diversity among Asian Americans racial discrimination in housing and building coalitions for racial justice 2012-2013 College Admissions Data Sourcebook Midwest Edition , Neoliberalizing Spaces in the Philippines Arnisson Andre Ortega,2016-09-09 Amidst the recent global financial crisis and housing busts in various countries the Philippines booming housing industry has been heralded as Southeast Asia s hottest real estate hub and the saving grace of a supposedly resilient Philippine economy This growth has been fueled by demand from balikbayan returnee

Overseas Filipinos and has facilitated the rise of gated suburban communities in Manila's sprawling peri urban fringe. But as the Filipino dreams of successful balikbayans are built inside these new gated residential developments, the lives of marginalized populations living in these spaces have been upended and thrown into turmoil as they face threats of expulsion. Based on almost four years of research, this book examines the tumultuous geographies of neoliberalization that link suburbanization, transnational mobilities, and accumulation by dispossession. Through an accounting of real estate and new suburban landscapes, it tells of a Filipino transnationalism that engenders a market-based and privatized suburban political economy that reworks socio-spatial relations and class dynamics. In presenting the literal and discursive transformations of spaces in Manila's peri urban fringe, the book details life inside new gated suburban communities and discusses the everyday geographies of privileged new property owners, mainly comprised of balikbayan families, and exposes the contradictions of gated suburban life, from resistance to Home Owner Association rules to alienating feelings of loss. It also reveals the darker side of the property boom by mapping the volatile spaces of the Philippines' surplus populations, comprised of the landless farmers, informal settler residents, and indigenous peoples. To make way for gated communities and other profitable developments in the peri urban region, marginalized residents are systematically dispossessed and displaced while concomitantly offered relocation to isolated socialized housing projects, the last frontier for real estate accumulation. These compelling accounts illustrate how the territorial embeddedness of neoliberalization in the Philippines entails the consolidation of capital by political-economic elites and privatization of residential space for an idealized transnational property clientele. More than ever, as the Philippines is being reshaped by diaspora and accumulation by dispossession, the contemporary moment is a critical time to reflect on what it truly means to be a nation.

Perspectives of Black Histories in Schools LaGarrett J. King, 2019-11-01. Concerned scholars and educators since the early 20th century have asked questions regarding the viability of Black history in K-12 schools. Over the years, we have seen K-12 Black history expand as an academic subject, which has altered research questions that deviate from whether Black history is important to know to what type of Black history knowledge and pedagogies should be cultivated in classrooms in order to present a more holistic understanding of the group's historical significance. Research around this subject has been stagnated, typically focusing on the subject's tokenism and problematic status within education. We know little of the state of K-12 Black history education and the different perspectives that Black history encompasses. The book Perspectives on Black Histories in Schools brings together a diverse group of scholars who discuss how K-12 Black history is understood in education. The book's chapters focus on the question: what is Black history, and explores that inquiry through various mediums, including its foundation, curriculum, pedagogy, policy, and psychology. The book provides researchers, teacher-educators, and historians an examination into how much k 12 Black history has come and yet how long it still needed to go

Challenging Perceptions of Africa in Schools Barbara O'Toole, Eibun Joseph, David Nyaluke, 2019-12-23 This book challenges educational discourse in relation to teaching about Africa at all levels of the education system in the Global North with a specific case study focusing on the Republic of Ireland The book provides an interrogation of the proliferation of negative imagery of and messages about African people and African countries and the impact of this on the attitudes and perceptions of children and young people It explores how predominantly negative stereotyping can be challenged in classrooms through an educational approach grounded in principles of solidarity interdependence and social justice The book focuses on the premise that existing educational narratives about the African continent and African people are rooted in a preponderance of racialised perceptions an impoverished continent dependent on the benevolence of the North The cycle of negativity engendered as a result of such portrayals cannot be broken until educators engage with these matters and bring critical and inquiry based pedagogies into classrooms Insights into three key pedagogical areas are provided active unlearning translating critical thinking into meaningful action and developing a race consciousness This book will appeal to academics researchers and post graduate students in the fields of education and teacher education It will be of interest to those involved in youth work as well as intercultural and global citizenship youth trainers The Open Access version of this book available at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license
