Grade Time Table November 2014 North West:

Class Size Peter Blatchford,Kam Wing Chan,Maurice Galton,Kwok Chan Lai,John Chi-Kin Lee,2016-04-28 Much debate research and commentary about class sizes in schools is limited because of an exclusive concern with class size and pupil academic attainment and a neglect of classroom processes which might help explain class size effects or lack of them Very little is known about the central question how can teachers make the most of class size changes Much of the commentary on class size effects has focused on Western and English speaking countries but there are promising developments elsewhere particularly the Small Class Teaching initiatives in East Asia in the past decade which have brought new knowledge and practical wisdom to the class size debate This book seeks to move toward a clearer view of what we know and do not know about class size effects and to identify future steps in terms of policy and research There is a huge and exciting potential for international collaboration on knowledge concerning class size effects which can help with research informed policy The book aims to draw out Eastern and Western international contexts which underpin any understanding of the role of class size in school learning The book has chapters by an international team of experts on class size effects including Maurice Galton and John Hattie Chapters are organised into four main sections Socio cultural and political contexts to the class size debate in the East and West Research evidence on class size Class size and classroom processes likely to be related to class size changes Professional development for small class teaching in East Asia

Measurement Invariance Rens Van De Schoot,Peter Schmidt,Alain De Beuckelaer,2015-10-05 Multi item surveys are frequently used to study scores on latent factors like human values attitudes and behavior Such studies often include a comparison between specific groups of individuals either at one or multiple points in time If such latent factor means are to be meaningfully compared the measurement structures including the latent factor and their survey items should be stable across groups and or over time that is invariant Recent developments in statistics have provided new analytical tools for assessing measurement invariance MI The aim of this special issue is to provide a forum for a discussion of MI covering some crucial themes 1 ways to assess and deal with measurement non invariance 2 Bayesian and IRT methods employing the concept of approximate measurement invariance and 3 new or adjusted approaches for testing MI to fit increasingly complex statistical models and specific characteristics of survey data The special issue started with a kick off meeting where all potential contributors shared ideas on potential papers This expert workshop was organized at Utrecht University in The Netherlands and was funded by the Netherlands Organization for Scientific Research NWO VENI 451 11
