Study Guide Questions

Chapter One

1. How does the narrator reveal her unusual social background?
The narrator is orphaned, poor, and alone. Her father's last recommendation is to send her to the orphanage where she is about to begin her education.
2. Why does Jane refuse her education?
Her education gets away from her health and her independence.
  - a. What does her refusal indicate about her character?
It shows that she is independent and has a strong sense of self-worth and is not easily swayed.
3. Why does Jane have a strong feeling about her education, particularly in relation to her father's recommendation?
Jane's father has to send her to the orphanage where she will have to live in a harsh environment.
4. What does the narrator tell us about her father's death?
Jane's father is a poor, struggling man who has died. She is now in the orphanage where she will have to live with other children. She is very lonely and has no one to turn to for help. The orphanage is a place where she will have to live for the rest of her life. Jane's father's death is a tragedy for her and for the orphanage.
5. Is Jane justified in leaving the orphanage's building? Why or why not? (What changes does she have to make to her own life?)
Jane is justified in leaving the orphanage's building. She is very lonely and has no one to turn to for help. She is also very young and needs a home.

Chapter Two

1. How does the narrator describe the orphanage and the other children? What does she think about the orphanage and the other children?
Jane describes the orphanage as a place where she is very lonely and has no one to turn to for help. She also describes the other children as being very different from her.
