When he learned that stars were actually extremely distant suns, his world was changed and the magnitude of the universe opened up to him. Another strong motivator into science came with his reading of a popular science fiction book of the time, The Barroths Tales. The stories were not extremely sound scientifically, but still presented ideals of adventure and the unknown. The idea that life could exist elsewhere in the universe fascinated Sagan and remained with him for the rest of his life (Escher).

Italicize names of books, plays, poems, television shows, newspapers, magazines, websites, databases, art, ships, and space craft.

Perhaps one of Sagan's most famous individual accomplishments was his involvement with the Pioneer 10 Space Probe. The probe was created to be the first object to exit our galaxy. Sagan acknowledged that the chances of anything actually discovering the probe were astronomical, but believed that it was important to promote public appreciation for science and thought the project to be "all in good fun" (McDonough 50).

This step-by-step guide shows how to construct a thesis statement and the other main points that constitute the structure of the paper, how to write the paragraphs that make up the body of the paper, how to engage in productive research in a planned self-directed way, how to make a point clear not just grammatically or stylistically but also how to clearly convey ideas to an audience, how to think your way through the numerous unanticipated issues including aspects of grammatical correctness, transitions, and many others that arise while writing papers. Each step provides close and careful processes for carrying out each of these tasks through the use of critical thinking.
