

SECTION A: COMPREHENSION

QUESTION 1 – 30 marks

Read both Text A and Text B and answer the next questions.

TEXT A

- Questions that the World Cup-winning Springbok captain Bheke Mkhize answered – came partly unexpected – in his inspirational autobiography Rise.
 - South African rugby player Bheke Mkhize uses his autobiography as one of the main vehicles for Black men in South Africa's rugby team to move from 1995 to the present. From humble beginnings to international stardom, Mkhize's life shows the power of achieving a positive mindset.
 - Here are questions excerpted from Mkhize's autobiography, Rise.
1. Write over the person that set him on the path to glory?
1. Mkhize makes no bones about it: "Without her, I wouldn't be here. That's not a figure of speech," Mkhize explains, talking about his grandmother Nkomo, who brought him up in the township of Dordos in the Eastern Cape city of Port Elizabeth. An remarkable woman, she was the "positive, loving, supportive and protective" influence in his upbringing. She would never go without food herself to ensure Mkhize had enough to stave off his mother's hunger. She really did make sure that all was always well in the home.
1. What was his first sporting triumph?
1. Mkhize began playing soccer when he was five and loved playing goals, shooting himself above in the hard, compressed earth of a makeshift pitch, guarding goals made of bricks. He and his team mates would share a goal of place of the week (that's about 25 points or 30 points between them) when they won a 'tournament' against kids from another street in the township. They would then buy pieces of vegetables – pieces of dough filled with sausage and cheese – as their trophies. As often as not, though, he realised, it would be and with a trophy, but abstaining for breaking a promise.
1. What most attracted him to rugby?
1. A schoolboy? It is a happy one? No, when he would his white-eyed four-year-old cousin watching the national South African cricket team Dordos off South performing their home and foreign pre-match challenge, the Mkhize at the 2003 World Cup. "To me, it was just another well about wishes of cheering, high-jumping and eye-rolling, and it's perfect with my friends in the day, and performed for my dad when he came home from work every evening," realised Mkhize.

12. What was the incident that changed his life?

1. Mkhize realised that he could no longer have lived a different, more traditional career as he got increasingly involved in his rugby and period working with other boys in the township. "I realised that I was an athlete from then, not only from the real options (job or sports or both)," he reflected. "It was during a session for a local rugby team collective African Bantams, currently a shooting, anything, but experienced coach called Ben Dordos, proved an inspiring. "I finished that session exhausted, injured and bleeding, but I walked home on a machine. I was the most handsome thing I've ever done. From that moment on, I never looked back, and never looked another way again," Mkhize concluded.

13. What was his first team?

1. After Mkhize moved to a life-changing primary to attend Dordos High School in Port Elizabeth, he joined the rugby Springboks team to their team, headed by Sir John Dordos. "He was my hero, not just because I was almost like him, but because of the way he played. He was everywhere, always there, but flying as he threw himself into tackles, slipped out socks and on the hard yards in the tight situations," he remembered. He was his only really serious role player for his school, but he realised that he was a piece of paper in his hands, and he was not a team and he had to get the situation that in this day, sometimes of the school possessions. "If you'd told me then that one day I'd be a school, it would be not just my team mate but also my friend, I'd have thought you'd lost your mind," realised Mkhize.

The Normal Accident Theory of Education Andrew K. Milton, 2014-04-01 Much of the current debate about education too often resembles the blind men describing an elephant apprehending only a particular part of the situation or the process many analysts tell an evocative but incomplete story The so called reform discussion proceeds with a lack of depth about the nuances and realistic limitations in the institutional order of school This book argues that as regulation of schools moves further up the bureaucratic hierarchy first to state departments of education then to the national department of education the legal and institutional requirements get more intensive but less concretely useful in class rooms This bureaucratization serves to tighten the organizational environment thereby increasing the risk of normal accidents The increasing governmental management in other words makes it more likely that schools will fail to meet their goals Analyses of education are too often developed for public consumption in a fast moving political world This book examines some of the deeper organizational reasons why things don t work so well in school as well as a look at some of things that do work Most importantly the book will explain how the social and cultural expectations of what schools can do may create unrealistic hopes We as a society and schools as institutions embrace these unreasonably high hopes at our collective peril Check out Andrew s latest interview with Seattle Radio <http://kiroradio.com> listen 9972862 The Observation Protocol for Academic Literacies Magaly
