Back to Basics Martin Jack Desmond, 2004 The rural areas of the Pacific Northwest region have been economically suffering for over ten years The urban areas have been economically suffering for over four years This book describes how we can create economically and environmentally sound jobs by utilizing our greatest natural resource in the Pacific Northwest region our forests We can choose to embrace a future to create good jobs in our region that will withstand the rigors of global job outsourcing and improve our environment Six points to economic security

- Point 1 The United States and the Pacific Northwest have a lack of good jobs economic recovery
- Point 2 Global outsourcing is one of the factors for the loss of good jobs America is increasingly unable to create good jobs that are able to compete against low wages from Asia
- Point 3 Over three quarters of Forest Service lands in Oregon and Washington are at moderate to high risk from destructive wildfires because of large accumulations of brush and small trees
- Point 4 The federal government spent over 1.5 billion in both 2000 and 2002 to suppress wildfires
- Point 5 Rather than spend increasing sums of money on wildfire suppression the federal government should sell excess small trees on our public lands to reduce the fuels accumulation The sale of the trees would generate funds to pay for more fuels treatment
- Point 6 Private companies and public agencies would hire Americans to work in the woods to reduce the fuels buildup and to process the woody biomass in the mills and ethanol conversion plants

We could use the ethanol fuel to power our vehicles We would reduce our 60% dependence on imported oil from the politically unstable Middle East and other foreign countries We could produce more lumber to reduce our 30% dependence on imported lumber from other countries We could reduce the threat of wildfires We could also build up our forests to store excess carbon dioxide to combat global warming
