Figure 1-1 The SketchUp window. The SketchUp window is a familiar interface that you've seen in other 3D modeling software. The Component window shows how the 3D model is built, and the Modeling toolbar shows the tools you use to create and edit the model.

In addition to the five main windows, SketchUp also includes several other windows, such as the Component window that's open in Figure 1-1. You can open and close these as needed by using the Window menu. With the tools in the toolbar, you'll apply color and shading to your models, select and delete components, add shadows and lighting effects, and export your project.

SketchUp's menu bar is similar to the menu bars in other software, such as File, Edit, Window, and Help. SketchUp's View menu is a little different from the ones in most programs (Figure 1-2). The View menu has items in the SketchUp window that you can show or hide, including things like the drawing guides, the 3D model, the component window, and the Component window. If you're looking for tools that change over time of the SketchUp window, such as the View menu, look under the Window menu.
