

A man and a young girl are standing against a bright yellow background. The man, on the right, is wearing a blue zip-up jacket over a red and white horizontally striped t-shirt and dark pants. He has a serious, almost stern expression. The girl, on the left, is wearing a matching blue zip-up jacket, dark pants, and a grey flat cap. She is leaning her arm around the man's waist and smiling. A red banner with a white border is positioned at the bottom of the image, containing the text "Instructions not INCLUDED" in a bold, red, sans-serif font. The word "not" is smaller and in a lighter red color than the other words.

Falicov, 2019-06-27 Film production in Latin America is as old as cinema itself but local film industries have always been in a triangulated relationship with Hollywood and European cinema This book situates Latin American film industries within the global circulation of film production exhibition and distribution charting the changes that the industries have undergone from the sound era to the present day Focusing in particular on Argentina Brazil and Mexico Tamara Falicov examines commonalities among Latin American film industries such as the challenges of procuring funding competition from Hollywood state funding battles and the fickle nature of audiences as well as censorship issues competition from television and the transnational nature of Latin American film She addresses production exhibition and distribution contexts and financing and co production with Europe and the United States as well as the role of film festivals in funding and circulating films both within and outside of Latin America Newer trends such as the revival of protectionist measures like the screen quota are framed in contrast to the U S's push for trade policy liberalization and issues of universal concern such as film piracy and new technologies and the role of television in helping and hindering Latin American cinema New Transnationalisms in Contemporary Latin American Cinemas Dolores Tierney, 2018-01-23 In the late 1990s and early 2000s Latin American films like Amores perros Y tu mamá también and Cidade de Deus enjoyed an unprecedented level of critical and commercial success in the world market Benefitting from external financial and or creative input these films were considered examples of transnational cinema Through a textual analysis of six filmmakers Alejandro Gonzalez Inarritu Alfonso Cuarón Guillermo del Toro Fernando Meirelles Walter Salles and Juan Jose Campanella this book examines these transnational films and the subsequent wave of commercially successful deterritorialised films by the same directors It argues that although films produced within the structures of the United States film industry may have been commercially successful they are not necessarily apolitical or totally divorced from key notions of national or continental identity Bringing a new perspective to the films of Latin America s transnational auteurs this is a major contribution towards understanding how different genres function across different cultures

The Precarious in the Cinemas of the Americas Constanza Burucúa, Carolina Sitnisky, 2018-05-29 Historically cinema in the Americas has been signed by a state of precariousness Notwithstanding the growing accessibility to video and digital technologies access to the material means of film production is still limited affecting the spheres of production distribution and reception Equally questions about the precarious can be traced in cultural and archival policies film legislations as well as in thematic and aesthetic choices While conventional definitions of the precarious have been associated with notions of scarcity and insecurity this volume looks at precariousness from a non monolithic angle exploring its productivity and potential for original critical approaches with the aim of providing new readings to the variedly rich and complex cinemas of the Americas

Globalization and Latin American Cinema Sophia A. McClennen, 2018-05-25 Studying the case of Latin American cinema this book analyzes one of the most public and most exportable forms of postcolonial national culture to argue that millennial era globalization demands entirely new frameworks for thinking about the relationship between politics culture and economic policies Concerns that globalization would bring the downfall of national culture were common in the 1990s as economies across the globe began implementing neoliberal free market policies and abolishing state protections for culture industries Simultaneously new technologies and the increased mobility of people and information caused others to see globalization as an era of heightened connectivity and progressive contact Twenty five years later we are now able to examine the actual impact of globalization on local and regional cultures especially those of postcolonial societies Tracing the full life cycle of films and studying blockbusters like City of God Motorcycle Diaries and Children of Men this book argues that neoliberal globalization has created a highly ambivalent space for cultural expression one willing to market against itself as long as the stories sell The result is an innovative and ground breaking text suited to scholars interested in globalization studies Latin American studies and film studies
