Writing Home Glenn Morrison, 2017-01-30 Writing Home explores the literary representation of Australian places by those who have walked them In particular it examines how Aboriginal and settler narratives of walking have shaped portrayals of Australia's Red Centre and consequently ideas of nation and belonging Central Australia has long been characterised as a frontier the supposed divide between black and white ancient and modern But persistently representing it in this way is preventing Australians from re imagining this internationally significant region as home Writing Home argues that the frontier no longer adequately describes Central Australia and that the Aboriginal songlines make a significant but under acknowledged contribution to Australian discourses of hybridity belonging and home Drawing on anthropology cultural theory journalism politics and philosophy the book traces shifting perceptions of Australian place and space since precolonial times through six recounted walking journeys of the Red Centre Language by mouth and by hand Iris Berent, Susan Goldin-Meadow, 2015-05-11 While most natural languages rely on speech humans can spontaneously generate comparable linguistic systems that utilize manual gestures This collection of papers examines the interaction between natural language and its phonetic vessels human speech or manual gestures We seek to identify what linguistic aspects are invariant across signed and spoken languages and determine how the choice of the phonetic vessel shapes language structure its processing and its neural implementation We welcome rigorous empirical studies from a wide variety of perspectives ranging from behavioral studies to brain analyses diverse ages from infants to adults and multiple languages both conventional and emerging home signs and sign languages Language, Society and Power Annabelle Mooney, Betsy Evans, 2015-02-20 Language Society and Power is the essential introductory text to studying language in a variety of social contexts This book examines the ways language functions how it influences thought and how it varies according to age ethnicity class and gender It considers whether representations of people and their language matter explores how identity is constructed and performed and considers the creative potential of language in the media politics and everyday talk This fourth edition has been completely revised to include recent developments in theory and research and offers the following features A range of new and engaging international examples drawn from everyday life including material from social media and newspapers cartoons YouTube and television Two new chapters which cover Linguistic Landscapes including signs graffiti and the internet and Global Englishes exploring variation in and attitudes to English around the world Updated and expanded student research projects and further reading sections for each chapter Brand new companion website that includes video and audio clips links to articles and further reading for students and professors Language Society and Power is a must read for students of English language and linguistics media communication cultural studies sociology and psychology Exploring Digital Communication Caroline Tagg, 2015-04-10 Routledge Introductions to Applied Linguistics is a series of introductory level textbooks covering the core topics in Applied Linguistics primarily designed for those beginning postgraduate studies or taking an introductory MA course as well as advanced undergraduates Titles in the series are also ideal for language professionals returning to academic study The books take an innovative practice to theory approach with a back to front structure This leads the reader from real world problems and issues through a discussion of intervention and how to engage with these concerns before finally relating these practical issues to theoretical foundations Exploring Digital Communication aims to discuss real world issues pertaining to digital communication and to explore how linguistic research addresses these challenges The text is divided into three sections Problems and practices Interventions and Theory each of which is further divided into two subsections which reflect linguistic issues relating to digital communication The author seeks to demystify any perceived divide between online and offline communication arguing that issues raised in relation to digital communication throw light on language use and practices in general and thus linguistic interventions in this area have implications not only for users of digital communication but for linguists general understanding of language and society Including relevant research examples tasks and a glossary this textbook is an invaluable resource for postgraduate and upper undergraduate students taking New Media or Communication Studies modules within Applied Linguistics and English Language courses

Handbook of Home Language Maintenance and Development Andrea C. Schalley, Susana A. Eisenclas, 2020-06-22 Even a cursory look at conference programs and proceedings reveals a burgeoning interest in the field of social and affective factors in home language maintenance and development To date however research on this topic has been published in piecemeal fashion subsumed under the more general umbrella of bilingualism Within bilingualism research there has been an extensive exploration of linguistic and psycholinguistic perspectives on the one hand and educational practices and outcomes on the other In comparison social and affective factors which lead people to either maintain or shift the language have been under researched This is the first volume that brings together the different strands in research on social and affective factors in home language maintenance and development ranging from the micro level family language policies and practices to the meso level community initiatives and the macro level mainstream educational policies and their implementation The volume showcases a wide distribution across contexts and populations explored Contributors from around the world represent different research paradigms and perspectives providing a rounded overview of the state of the art in this flourishing field

Interdisciplinary Approaches to Multilingualism Suzanne Curtin, Mary Grantham O'Brien, Rahat Naqvi, 2015-07-16 This research topic stems from the Interdisciplinary Approaches to Multilingualism conference which was hosted by the Language Research Centre at the University of Calgary It was the first conference of its kind which brought together the work of researchers educators and policy makers in the areas of first and second language acquisition from psycholinguistic and pedagogical perspectives The goal was to provide an opportunity for participants to engage with the implications of multilingualism from a range of perspectives including the effects of being bilingual from infancy to adulthood the process and benefits of learning multiple languages and the impact of multilingualism on society

Family Language Policies in a Multilingual World John Macalister, Seyed Hadi Mirvahedi, 2016-12-19 Through case studies from around the world this book illustrates the opportunities and challenges facing families negotiating the issues of language maintenance and language learning in the home Every family living in a bi multilingual environment

faces the question of what language s to speak with their children and must make a decision consciously or otherwise about these issues Exploring links between language policy in the home and wider society in a range of diverse settings the contributors utilize various research tools including interviews questionnaires observations and archival document analysis to explore linguistic ideologies and practices of family members in the home illuminating how these are shaped by macro level societal processes Education and Migration Prue Holmes,Richard Fay,Jane Andrews,2020-06-04 From an international research led perspective this book explores how languages are foregrounded in education in different countries and educational sectors and among different groups of people in contexts of migration It is concerned with the movement of people and their languages as they migrate across borders and as languages and their speakers are under threat pressure and pain even to the point of being silenced The contributors explore the multilingual possibilities and opportunities that these situations present For example where children s education is neglected because of displacement or exclusion or in classrooms where teachers and educational leaders seek to meet the needs of all learners including those who are new citizens refugees or asylum seekers Together the findings and conclusions emerging from these studies open up a timely space for interdisciplinary inter practitioner and comparative researcher dialogue concerning languages and intercultural education in times of migration Originating from an Arts and Humanities Research Council funded project Researching multilingually at the borders of language the body law and the state this book provides readers with a natural impetus for exploring how languages and their speakers create new imaginaries and new possibilities in educational contexts and communities as people engage with one another in and through these languages This book was originally published as a special issue of Language and Intercultural Communication Friending the Past Alan Liu,2018-11-27 Can today s society increasingly captivated by a constant flow of information share a sense of history How did our media making forebears balance the tension between the present and the absent the individual and the collective the static and the dynamic and how do our current digital networks disrupt these same balances Can our social media with its fleeting nature even be considered social at all In Friending the Past Alan Liu proposes fresh answers to these innovative questions of connection He explores how we can learn from the relationship between past societies whose media forms fostered a communal and self aware sense of history such as prehistorical oral societies with robust storytelling cultures or the great print works of nineteenth century historicism and our own instantaneous present He concludes with a surprising look at how the sense of history exemplified in today s JavaScript timelines compares to the temporality found in Romantic poetry Interlaced among these inquiries Liu shows how extensive network archaeologies can be constructed as novel ways of thinking about our affiliations with time and with each other These conceptual architectures of period and age are also always media structures scaffolded with the outlines of what we mean by history Thinking about our own time Liu wonders if the digital networked future can sustain a similar sense of history The Statesman's Yearbook 2016 Nick Heath-Brown,2017-02-07 Now in its 152nd edition The Statesman's Yearbook continues to be the reference work of choice for accurate and reliable information on every country in the world. Covering political, economic, social, and cultural aspects, the Yearbook is also available online for subscribing institutions at www.statesmansyearbook.com. Migrant Care Workers Karen Christensen, Ingrid Guldvik, 2016-04-22. In this beautifully argued book, Karen Christensen and Ingrid Guldvik provide a comparatively based insight into the historical context for public care work and show how migration policies, general welfare, and long-term care policies, including the cash-for-care schemes, as well as cultural differences in values in the UK and Norway, set the context for how migrant care workers can realise their individual life projects. Through viewing migrants as individuals who actively construct their lives within the options and conditions they are given at any time, they bring to the discussion an awareness of what might be called a new type of migrant: one who is neither a victim of the divide between the global north and the global south nor someone leaving family behind, but individuals using care work as a part of their own life project of potential self-improvement.
