Abstract. This paper presents a new method for the automatic detection of the onset of a seizure. The method is based on the analysis of the non-linear properties of the EEG signal. The non-linear properties are analyzed using the Lyapunov exponent, which is a measure of the divergence of two trajectories in a phase space. The Lyapunov exponent is calculated for a set of EEG signals, and the results are compared with the results of a linear analysis. The results show that the non-linear analysis is more sensitive to the onset of a seizure than the linear analysis. The method is applied to a set of EEG signals, and the results are compared with the results of a linear analysis. The results show that the non-linear analysis is more sensitive to the onset of a seizure than the linear analysis.
