Food Safety and Inspection Madeleine Smith, 2018-08-06 The process of food inspection relies on an inspector's understanding of the intrinsic hazards associated with individual foods Whereas spoilage can usually be determined through a simple organoleptic assessment the judgment of whether a food is fit for human consumption requires an evaluation of health hazards many of which may not be apparent through physical assessment Instead the inspector must analyse and integrate scientific and handling information to evaluate the potential health risk Adulteration of foods is also becoming an increasing problem and the complexity of the food supply chain requires an understanding of risk points to allow targeted inspection and assessment

Food Safety and Inspection An Introduction focuses on food categories and describes common hazards associated with each using published peer reviewed research to explain and evaluate the health risk It is a practical textbook designed to support the role of food inspection in a modern food industry There are seven chapters looking at specific aspects of food safety including a chapter on fraud and adulteration This book summarises relevant published research to provide a scientific context for specific food safety issues and is an essential read for anyone interested in becoming a food inspector

Regional Overview of Food Security and Nutrition in Europe and Central Asia 2020 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, World Food Programme, United Nations Children's Fund, World Health Organization, World Meteorological Organization, United Nations, 2021-05-12 This report consists of two main sections 1 a situation analysis of Sustainable Development Goal 2 Target 2.1 to end hunger and ensure access to food by all and Target 2.2 to end all forms of malnutrition and analyses of the diets of children and of current food consumption patterns relative to dietary guidelines and 2 a special look at the cost and affordability of healthy diets in Europe and Central Asia The new estimates confirm that the prevalence of hunger at chronic or severe levels is relatively low in the ECA region However the prevalence of food insecurity at moderate or severe levels can be quite high The ongoing COVID 19 pandemic continues to add people to the ranks of the food insecure The ECA region is making progress overall in reducing malnutrition but it is not on track regarding childhood overweight adult obesity anaemia and exclusive breastfeeding Healthy diets protect against the effects of malnutrition in all its forms and promote better health This report shows that healthy diets cost on average five times more than diets that meet only dietary energy needs making them unaffordable for many people throughout the region To increase the affordability of healthy diets the costs of nutritious foods must be lowered This report also shows that hidden costs are much lower with healthy diets than with current consumption patterns meaning that adopting healthy diet alternatives could lead to large cost savings

EU Law and Obesity Prevention Amandine Garde, 2010-10-11 Since the 1980s there has been an alarming increase in the prevalence of obesity in virtually every country in the world As obesity is known to lead to both chronic and severe medical problems it imposes a cost not only on affected individuals and their families but also on society as a whole In Europe the Obesity Prevention White Paper of May 2007 followed by the adoption of an EU School Fruit Scheme the acknowledgement that food advertising to children should be limited and proposed legislation to make nutrition labeling compulsory has firmly placed obesity on the EU agenda by laying down a multi sectoral strategy and a basis for future action In accordance with this growing sense of urgency this is the first book to offer an in depth legal analysis of obesity prevention with particular reference to Europe It describes what the EU has done and could do to support Member States in fighting the obesity epidemic and clearly shows the way to locating advocacy strategies within the framework of EU law The thorough analysis includes a discussion of the following issues the need to address nutrition and physical activity as important health determinants the emphasis traditionally placed at EU level on food safety rather than food quality the need for the development of databases on nutrition and physical activity comparable common indicators and risk assessment mechanisms

mainstreaming public health into all EU policies the scope of EU powers in the case law of the Court of Justice the role of information in the EU s obesity prevention strategy the Commission s proposed Mandatory Nutrition Declaration the Food Claims Regulation the regulation of food marketing to children and in particular the role of the Audiovisual Media Services Directive the Unfair Commercial Practices Directive and industry self regulation food reformulation the use of economic instruments in the EU s obesity prevention strategy with an emphasis on the Common Agricultural Policy and the EU s taxation policy and EU action in the fields of sport occupational health and safety and transport policy The author convincingly shows that conflicts of interest inherent in market forces demand a strong EU intervention preferably through legislation than self regulation She also demonstrates the urgent need to reach an agreement on the basis of reliable data about what is effective in practice to improve lifestyles The study acknowledges that the law is not a panacea but nonetheless has an influential role to play in making the healthy choice an easier choice and must move decisively towards ensuring that the societal costs associated with obesity are sustainable and that the ultimate goal of a healthy population is achievable The book is essential reading for everyone involved or interested in the development of the EU s obesity prevention policy
