

Thesis Statements

A thesis statement is the main idea or argument in a paper. Thesis statements provide writers with a focus for their paper, and they provide readers with a sense of direction.

While the structure of thesis statements can vary widely, the “although/I will argue/because” structure is a helpful starting point until you feel more comfortable with this process!

Although____(opposing argument)____, I will argue____(your argument)____, because____(your reasoning)____.

Example:

Although some students believe that they are good writers and do not need any assistance from the Writing Center, I will argue that the Writing Center can provide a useful service to writers of any stage because having someone to bounce ideas off of can improve the overall quality of your paper.

Ask yourself these questions while crafting a thesis:

- Does your thesis answer a question, propose a solution to a problem, or take a position in a debate?
- Is the thesis complex enough to develop throughout an entire essay?
- Is your thesis obvious? If you cannot come up with arguments that oppose your argument, consider revising the thesis.
- Can you support your thesis with evidence?
- Is my thesis interesting? Will it catch my audience's attention?

Tips for supporting a thesis statement:

- Write your thesis first It is perfectly okay to free-write during the brainstorming stage of writing without a thesis statement, but it is very helpful to have a thesis while working on the first draft of a paper!
- Outline Before you begin writing your first draft, develop an outline that supports your thesis statement.
- Be flexible When you develop your thesis statement initially, try to adopt the mindset that it is a “working thesis.” As you begin to write, it is likely that you will either take away or add support to your argument. When you have completed your first draft, go back to your thesis statement and make any necessary adjustments.
- Reverse Outlining One of the best ways to make sure you fully developed your thesis statement is to make a reverse outline when you finish your first draft.
 - ◆ Copy your thesis statement, topic sentences, and any major points you make in each paragraph (no more than a sentence each) and paste them into a new document.
 - ◆ Read through the sentences you pulled from your draft in order to determine whether or not you followed your thesis throughout the paper.

Critical Writing Gerald Nosich,2021-03-17 The main goal of Critical Writing is to provide students with a set of robust integrated critical concepts and processes that will allow them to think through and write about a topic in a way that is built on and permeated by substantive critical thinking. This step-by-step guide shows how to construct a thesis statement and the other main points that constitute the structure of the paper, how to write the paragraphs that make up the body of the paper, how to engage in productive research in a planned self-directed way, how to make a point clear not just grammatically or stylistically but also how to clearly convey ideas to an audience, how to think your way through the numerous unanticipated issues including aspects of grammatical correctness, transitions, and many others that arise while writing papers. Each step provides close and careful processes for carrying out each of these tasks through the use of critical thinking.

How to Write Anything John J. Ruszkiewicz, 2012-01-05 Because there is more than one writing process, How to Write Anything supports students wherever they are in their writing process. Designed to be clear and simple, the Guide lays out focused advice for writing common academic and real-world genres, while the Reference covers the range of writing skills that students need as they work across genres and disciplines. Genre-based readings, including narratives, reports, arguments, evaluations, proposals, and rhetorical, causal, and literary analyses, are sure to engage students and inspire ideas. The result is everything you need to teach composition in a flexible, highly visual guide, reference, and reader. This new edition gives students more support for academic writing, more help choosing and working with genres, and more emphasis on multimodal composing.

Technical Report/research Paper Naval Postgraduate School (U.S.), Writing Center Research Paula Gillespie, Alice Gillam, Lady Falls Brown, Byron Stay, 2001-12-01 There are writing centers at almost every college and university in the United States, and there is an emerging body of professional discourse research and writing about them. The goal of this book is to open, formalize, and further the dialogue about research in and about writing centers. The original essays in this volume, all written by writing center researchers, directly address current concerns in several ways: they encourage studies, data collection, and publication by offering detailed, reflective accounts of research; they encourage a diversity of approaches by demonstrating a range of methodologies, e.g., ethnography, longitudinal case study, rhetorical analysis, teacher research, available to both veteran and novice writing center professionals; they advance an ongoing conversation about writing center research by explicitly addressing epistemological and ethical issues. The book aims to encourage and guide other researchers while, at the same time, offering new knowledge that has resulted from the studies it analyzes.
