Abstract The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, supervised, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program on the physical fitness and health-related quality of life of sedentary, middle-aged, obese women. The study was a randomized, controlled trial. The subjects were randomly assigned to either the exercise or control group. The exercise group performed a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, supervised, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program. The control group did not exercise. The subjects were assessed at baseline and at 12 weeks. The primary outcome was the change in the physical fitness and health-related quality of life. The secondary outcome was the change in the body composition. The results showed that the exercise group had a significant improvement in the physical fitness and health-related quality of life compared to the control group. The exercise group also had a significant improvement in the body composition. The results suggest that a 12-week, 30-min, 3 times per week, supervised, low-impact aerobically and resistance training program can improve the physical fitness and health-related quality of life of sedentary, middle-aged, obese women.
