The Kite Runner by Khaled Hosseini tells a story about two boys, Amir, a Pashtun boy and a son of a wealthy business man and Hussan, a young Hazara boy that was his servant but more importantly his best friend. In their homeland of Kabul Afghanistan they face many challenges that test their friendship and loyalty to one another. Although Amir tries to put his memories of his cowardly actions of his childhood in the back of his head he can never escape it.

Amir finally has the opportunity for redemption when Rahim calls him to come back to Kabul and says "There is a way to be good again." Rahim, Amir's family friend tells him and makes him realize that he has the opportunity to redeem himself from when he was younger. He has that thought in his mind of how he can redeem himself for being a coward when he was younger and fill a void of helplessness. He is hesitant at first because he didn't know that Hassan was actually his brother and that the boy he needs to rescue was Hassan's son.

To make up for his childhood, he sets out to rescue his nephew Sarab from the harsh hardships of the Taliban ran city of Kabul. Amir and Hassan share a strong bond of friendship and loyalty towards one another that it shapes them to who they will become as adults.

Their childhood starts off in Amir house where "the poplar trees lines the redbrick driveway, which led to a part of wrought-iron gates. They in turn opened onto and extension of the driveway into my father's estate. The house sat on the left of the brick path, the backyard at the end of it" this is where the two kids would spend most of their childhood playing and hanging out. Amir and his father had one of the nicest houses in Kubal because of the man that he was. Although Amir was Pashtun and Hassan was a Hazara and everyone looked at the Hazara people at inferior Amir didn't see it like that because they were kids.

Book Banning in 21st-Century America Emily J. M. Knox, 2015-01-16 Requests for the removal relocation and restriction of books also known as challenges occur with some frequency in the United States Book Banning in 21st Century American Libraries based on thirteen contemporary book challenge cases in schools and public libraries across the United States argues that understanding contemporary reading practices especially interpretive strategies is vital to understanding why people attempt to censor books in schools and public libraries Previous research on censorship tends to focus on legal frameworks centered on Supreme Court cases historical case studies and bibliographies of texts that are targeted for removal or relocation and is often concerned with how censorship occurs The current project on the other hand is focused on the why of censorship and posits that many censorship behaviors and practices such as challenging books are intimately tied to the how one understands the practice of reading and its effects on character development and behavior It discusses reading as a social practice that has changed over time and encompasses different physical modalities and interpretive strategies In order to understand why people challenge books it presents a model of how the practice of reading is understood by challengers including what it means to read a text and especially how one constructs the idea of appropriate reading materials The book is based on three different kinds sources The first consists of documents including requests for reconsideration and letters obtained via Freedom of Information Act requests to governing bodies produced in the course of challenge cases Recordings of book challenge public hearings constitute the second source of data Finally the third source of data is interviews with challengers themselves The book offers a model of the reading practices of challengers It demonstrates that challengers are particularly influenced by what might be called a literal common sense orientation to text wherein there is little room for polysemic interpretation multiple meanings for text That is the meaning of texts is always clear and there is only one avenue for interpretation This common sense interpretive strategy is coupled with what Cathy Davidson calls undisciplined imagination wherein the reader is unable to maintain distance between the events in a text and his or her own response These reading practices broaden our understanding of why people attempt to censor books in public
