Changing the Narrative Vivechkanand S. Chunoo, Kathy L. Guthrie, 2018-06-01 Social justice and leadership education are inextricably linked In order to move social justice forward we need to develop leaders with knowledge skills and values to engage effectively in the leadership process We need socially just leaders now more than ever At a time when our elected and appointed officials agree on very little our communities are divided and distrustful of one another and individual citizens struggle for fairness in the face of discrimination society is at a crossroad In one direction lies the reproduction of oppression and marginalization continued distrust and further fragmentation In the other a route toward healing compassion and fairness How then do we prepare our leaders of tomorrow to walk the path of justice rather than take the road to ruin Changing the dominant narratives in society involves preparing skilled social critics and knowledgeable advocates for positive and sustainable change through education However when leadership education fails to consider social justice issues or when social justice education omits leadership learning both fall short of their goals This text links issues of social justice equity and equality to leadership knowledge skills and values with the intent of offering theoretical practical and policy recommendations to improve the work of educators charged with preparing undergraduates for the complexities of leadership in all its forms Collectively the contributors inform much needed practices and pedagogies toward socially just leadership education No single one of us can change the narrative alone but together we can amplify the voices of those leading toward justice The perspectives offered here are but a sample of the work being done to make the future a brighter place for all We invite you to be part of the conversation
