Environmental Apocalypse In Science And Art:

Environmental Apocalypse in Science and Art Sergio Fava, 2013 At a time when it is clear that climate change adaptation and mitigation are failing this book examines how our assumptions about valid and usable knowledge are preventing effective climate action Through a cross disciplinary empirically based analysis of climate science and policy the book situates the failures of climate policy in the cultural history of prediction and its interfaces with policy Fava calls into question the current interfaces between scientific research and climate policy by tracing multiple connections between modelling epistemology politics food security religion art and the apocalyptic Demonstrating how the current domination of climate policy by models and scenarios is part of the problem the book examines how artistic practices are a critical location to ask questions differently rethink environmental futures and activate social change The analysis starts with another moment of climatic change in recent western history the overlap of the Little Ice Age and the scientific revolution during which intense climatic scientific and political change were contemporary with mathematical calculation of the apocalypse Dealing with the need for complex answers to complex and urgent questions this is essential reading for those interested in climate action interdisciplinary research and methodological innovation The empirical analyses amount to a methodological experiment across history of science theology art theory and history architecture future studies climatology computer modelling and agricultural policy This book is a major contribution to understanding how we are precluding effective climate action and designing futures that resemble our worst nightmares

Understanding the Tacit Stephen P. Turner, 2014-01-21 This book outlines a new account of the tacit meaning tacit knowledge presuppositions practices traditions and so forth It includes essays on topics such as underdetermination and mutual understanding and critical discussions of the major alternative approaches to the tacit including Bourdieu's habitus and various practice theories Oakeshott's account of tradition Quentin Skinner's theory of historical meaning Harry Collins's idea of collective tacit knowledge as well as discussions of relevant cognitive science concepts such as non conceptual content connectionism and mirror neurons The new account of tacit knowledge focuses on the fact that in making the tacit explicit a person is not as many past accounts have supposed reading off the content of some sort of shared and fixed tacit scheme of presuppositions but rather responding to the needs of the Other for understanding

The Anthropocene in Global Media Leslie Sklair, 2020-11-22 This book offers the first systematic study of how the Anthropocene is reported in mass media globally drawing parallels between the use or misuse of the term and the media's attitude towards the associated issues of climate change and global warming Identifying the potential dangers of the Anthropocene provides a useful path into a variety of issues that are often ignored misrepresented or sidelined by the media These dangers are widely discussed in the social sciences environmental humanities and creative arts and this book includes chapters on how the contributions of these disciplines are reported by the media Our results suggest that the natural science and mass media establishments and the business and political interests which underpin them tend to lean towards optimistic reassurance the good Anthropocene rather than pessimistic alarmist stories in reporting the Anthropocene In this volume contributors explore how dangerous this neutralizing of the Anthropocene is in undermining serious global action in the face of the potential existential risks confronting humanity The book presents results from media in more than 100 countries in all major languages across the globe It covers the reporting of key environmental issues such as the impact of climate change and global warming on oceans forests soil biodiversity and the biosphere We offer explanations for differences and similarities in how the media report the Anthropocene in different regions of the world In doing so the book argues that though it is still controversial the idea of the Anthropocene helps to concentrate minds and behaviour in confronting ongoing ecological and Coronavirus crises The Anthropocene in Global Media will be of interest to students and scholars of environmental studies media and communication studies and the environmental humanities and all those who are concerned about the survival of humans on planet Earth

John Rawls and the History of Political Thought

Jeffrey Bercuson, 2014-05-16 In this book Jeffrey Bercuson presents the immense and yet for the most part unrecognized influences of Jean Jacques Rousseau and Georg Wilhelm Friedrich Hegel on John Rawls the most important political philosopher of the 20th century While the well documented influence of Immanuel Kant on Rawls is deep and profound Kantian features and interpretation of justice as fairness do not tell the whole story about that doctrine Drawing on Rawls s Lectures on the History of Moral Philosophy and his Lectures on the History of Political Philosophy Bercuson presents the reader with a more nuanced accurate account of the moral and political philosophy of Rawls in light of these under appreciated influences This new richer image of Rawls s political philosophy shows that Rawls s notion of reasonableness his notion of the kind and extent of our obligations to those fellows with whom we are engaged in social cooperation is conspicuously more demanding and therefore more attractive than most interpreters and critics assume Rawls turns to Rousseau and to Hegel both of whom provide attractive images of engaged citizenship worthy of emulation Written accessibly and contributing to key contemporary debates of global justice this book will be read by scholars within the fields of social and political theory ethics and philosophy

Hannah Arendt and the Limits of Total Domination Michal Aharony, 2015-03-05 Responding to the increasingly influential role of Hannah Arendt's political philosophy in recent years Hannah Arendt and the Limits of Total Domination The Holocaust Plurality and Resistance critically engages with Arendt's understanding of totalitarianism According to Arendt the main goal of totalitarianism was total domination namely the virtual eradication of human legality morality individuality and plurality This attempt in her view was most fully realized in the concentration camps which served as the major laboratories for the regime While Arendt focused on the perpetrators logic and drive Michal Aharony examines the perspectives and experiences of the victims and their ability to resist such an experiment The first book length study to juxtapose Arendt's concept of total domination with actual testimonies of Holocaust survivors this book calls for methodological pluralism and the integration of the voices and narratives of the actors in the construction of political concepts and theoretical systems To achieve this Aharony engages with both well known and non canonical intellectuals and writers who survived Auschwitz and Buchenwald concentration camps Additionally she analyzes the oral testimonies of survivors who are largely unknown drawing from interviews conducted in Israel and in the U S as well as from videotaped interviews from archives around the world Revealing various manifestations of unarmed resistance in the camps this study demonstrates the persistence of morality and free agency even under the most extreme and dehumanizing conditions while cautiously suggesting that absolute domination is never as absolute as it claims or wishes to be Scholars of political philosophy political science history and Holocaust studies will find this an original and compelling book Political Thought of Hume and his Contemporaries Frederick G.
