Borderlands of Economics Nahid Aslanbeigui, Young B. Choi, 2005-06-23 In recent years there has been increasing discontent with the abstract nature of mainstream economics Not only does this make the subject less relevant to real issues it drives a wedge between economics and other disciplines ostensibly addressing the same issues Borderlands of Economics explores the ways in which economics might be reconnected both with the real world and with other disciplines

The Designs of Academic Literacy Michael Newman, 2002-03-30 This qualitative multi case study of academic literacy is the first research to assume the premises of the Multiliteracies Project of the New London Group of literacy researchers It takes a multimodal view of literacy not limited to reading and writing and sets about to uncover the Design the flexible structuring of rules and principles that students and teachers both follow and create in college courses This Design takes the form of a game in which students channel content from sources such as texts and lectures to assessments of various kinds Students are then rewarded in the form of grades to the extent that the content they display matches the criteria the professor sets up The students in this study had to determine which content would or would not match these criteria which of six types of information facts concepts connections processes principles or metainformation e g rhetorical patterns were desired and how best to supply them To move content from source to target they used four operations These include exposure making themselves conscious of the information extraction a process of selecting information manipulation changing or synthesizing information and display showing the information Greater awareness of this Design led to greater success Pedagogical implications of this model include establishing a more realistic curricula for academic literacy programs and educating professors to better match grading criteria with learning goals
