Centre for Constitutional Studies, 1994-01-01 The television spectacles of Oka and the Rodney King affair served to focus public disaffection with the police a disaffection that has been growing for several years In Canada confidence in the police is at an all time low At the same time crime rates continue to rise Canada now has the dubious distinction of having the second highest crime rate in the Western world How did this state of affairs come about What do we want from our police How do we achieve policing that is consistent with the Charter of Rights and Freedoms The essays in this volume set out to explore these questions In their introduction the editors point out that constitutional order is tied to the exercise of power by law enforcement agencies and that if relations between the police and civil society continue to erode the exercise of force will rise a dangerous prospect for democratic societies "The Argus" Law Reports, 1897 Up to the end of 1959 the Argus law reports contained reports of the Supreme court of Victoria Panoptic Dreams Sean Patrick Hier, 2010 The number of Canadian cities using video surveillance systems to monitor city streets is growing In Panoptic Dreams Sean Hier explores how and why Canadian cities introduced street surveillance programs between 1981 and 2005 and brings to light the governance structures and privacy protection policy frameworks that made these programs possible This book uses empirical findings to reflect critically on video surveillance policy and design structures in Canada The original analyses will assist academics privacy advocates and others with community based interests to assess the strengths and weaknesses of establishing streetscape CCTV surveillance monitoring systems The Canadian Annual Review of Public Affairs John Castell Hopkins, 1924 The Victorian Law Reports Victoria.
