Gormley Jr.,David L. Weimer,1999-03 In recent years consumers professional organizations government officials and third party payers have become increasingly concerned about how to assess the quality of the services provided by organizations in both the private and the public sectors One new approach is the organizational report card which compares the performance of organizations such as public schools colleges hospitals and HMOs This book offers the first comprehensive study of such instruments It discusses the circumstances under which they are desirable alternatives to other policy instruments such as regulation how they should be designed who is likely to use them and for what purpose and what role if any government should have in their creation Informed by cases drawn from education health and other policy areas this book develops a conceptual framework for analyzing these issues It explores the tradeoffs in measuring performance the methods of communicating results effectively to mass and elite audiences and the ways in which organizations respond to the data gathered Pupil Marks and School Marking Systems United States. Office of Education,Edith Christine (Simanek) Greer,1963 Cincinnati Magazine ,2003-04 Cincinnati Magazine taps into the DNA of the city exploring shopping dining living and culture and giving readers a ringside seat on the issues shaping the region Report Cards Wade H. Morris,2023-09-26 The definitive history of the report card Report cards represent more than just an account of academic standing and attendance The report card also serves as a tool of control and as a microcosm for the shifting power dynamics among teachers parents school administrators and students In Report Cards A Cultural History Wade H Morris tells the story of American education by examining the history of this unique element of student life In the nearly two hundred year evolution of the report card this relic of academic bookkeeping reflected broader trends in the United States the republican zealotry and religious fervor of the antebellum period the failed promises of postwar Reconstruction for the formerly enslaved the changing gender roles in newly urbanized cities the overreach of the Progressive child saving movement in the early twentieth century and by the 1930s the increasing faith in an academic meritocracy The use of report cards expanded with the growth of school bureaucracies becoming a tool through which administrators could surveil both student activity and teachers And by the late twentieth century even the most radical critics of numerical reporting of children have had to compromise their ideals Morris traces the evolution of how teachers students parents and administrators have historically responded to report cards From a western New York classroom teacher in the 1830s and a Georgia student in the 1870s who was born enslaved to a Colorado student incarcerated in the early 1900s and the son of Russian Jewish immigrants applying to college in the 1930s Report Cards describes how generations of people have struggled to maintain dignity within a system that reduces children to numbers on slips of paper Examining Response to Intervention (RTI) Models in Secondary Education Epler, Pam, 2015-07-25 Response to Intervention RTI is an intervention model designed to assist all students regardless of their academic ability It seeks to assist students who are struggling in academics by providing them with targeted assistance in the form of tutoring pull out services and differentiated classroom instruction Examining Response to Intervention RTI Models in Secondary Education highlights the application of the RTI model to secondary schools through instructional strategies and real world examples of how this model can be used at the middle and high school levels Through a series of informative and timely chapters written by global educational specialists this publication is ideally designed for use by middle and high school teachers and school administrators as well as professors and students in upper level Educational Leadership and Secondary Education programs
