Maguire, 2016-08-17 An essential dimension of the Cold War took place in the realm of ideas and culture While much work exists on cinema relatively little research has been conducted on this subject in relation to television despite the latter being a technology and popular cultural form that emerged during this period This book rectifies that absence by examining the impact of the Cold War on entertainment television and underlines the comparative aspect by studying programs from both blocs without forgetting of course the outsize impact of American television Although most of the focus is on the two main protagonists the US and the USSR chapters also consider programming from the UK Czechoslovakia Romania and both East and West Germany This book represents a contribution to the debate about the cultural Cold War through a rigorously comparative analysis of the two blocs For this reason the approach used is thematic The study begins by considering the subject of censorship and then goes on to look at the very particular case of the two Germanys A series of comparative genre studies follow including police and war variety shows and documentaries and docudramas Perhaps surprisingly the similarities are often greater than the differences between television in the two blocs American Literature in

The Cinema of Robert Altman Robert Niemi, 2016-03-01 In a controversial and tumultuous filmmaking career that spanned nearly fifty years Robert Altman mocked subverted or otherwise refashioned Hollywood narrative and genre conventions Altman s idiosyncratic vision and propensity for formal experimentation resulted in an uneven body of work some rank failures and intriguing near misses as well as a number of great films that are among the most influential works of New American Cinema While Altman always professed to have nothing authoritative to say about the state of contemporary society this volume surveys all of his major films in their sociohistorical context to reposition the director as a trenchant satirist and social critic of postmodern America depicted as a lonely wasteland of fraudulent spectacle exploitative social relations and unfulfilled solitaires in search of elusive community

Howie-Willis, 2020-09-02 Sexually transmitted diseases for centuries lumped together as Venereal Disease or VD for short have always marched in lock step with soldiers from all armies wherever they have served During the twentieth century at least 125 000 Australian soldiers contracted VD while serving in overseas deployments the equivalent of six World War I infantry divisions Until the advent of penicillin in the mid 1940s the two most common and most devastating sexually transmitted diseases were gonorrhoea and syphilis During the overseas deployments of the Australian Army during the twentieth century these two debilitating disfiguring embarrassing and potentially lethal diseases put tens of thousands of soldiers out of action for weeks at a time Gonorrhoea and syphilis weakened the Australian Army seriously reducing its operational capability These two diseases also incurred huge financial costs for Australian citizens whose taxes went into recruiting and training whole cohorts of new troops to replace those hospitalised by VD and effectively lost to the Army for months on end In addition sexually transmitted diseases imposed enormous strain on the Army's usually over stretched health services Essentially preventable and self inflicted they diverted resources that could otherwise have been devoted to treating and rehabilitating soldiers wounded in action There were social costs as well because the soldiers who contracted VD were the menfolk of Australian women The soldiers were largely inexperienced young men who were far from home and faced an uncertain future The women they left behind would have been appalled to know that the soldiers they had lovingly farewelled would spend months in hospital being treated for diseases that were so taboo they could not be discussed around the family dinner table In this honest courageous book Ian Howie Willis tells the perplexing story of how two microscopic sexually transmitted organisms Neisseria gonorrhoeae and Treponema pallidum the bacteria causing gonorrhoea and syphilis wreaked enormous havoc among Australian troops in all their wars from South Africa in 1898 1902 to Vietnam in 1962 1973 and beyond
