These guidelines will encourage other health-care professionals, architects and owners to rethink design, installation, use and cost of equipment in a responsible, health-conscious, safe setting with the added safety for the patient, the health-care worker, the visitor, the caregiver and the community. The guidelines will be adopted by the American Society of Health-System Executives, the American Hospital Association, and numerous organizations of hospitals, health-care associations, and health-care workers.

The 1980-1990 economic crisis has had deep effects, above all, among the poorest of populations, hindering the possibility of the social safety mechanism that exists in construction with the subsequent stages of the business cycle, thus affecting welfare among the least advantaged.
