History, 2015 The Schenley Experiment Jake Oresick, 2017-04-14 The Schenley Experiment is the story of Pittsburgh's first public high school a social incubator in a largely segregated city that was highly even improbably successful throughout its 156 year existence Established in 1855 as Central High School and reorganized in 1916 Schenley High School was a model of innovative public education and an ongoing experiment in diversity Its graduates include Andy Warhol actor Bill Nunn and jazz virtuoso Earl Hines and its prestigious academic program and pensions lured such teachers as future Pulitzer Prize winner Willa Cather The subject of investment as well as destructive neglect the school reflects the history of the city of Pittsburgh and provides a study in both the best and worst of urban public education practices there and across the Rust Belt Integrated decades before Brown v Board of Education Schenley succumbed to default segregation during the white flight of the 1970s it rose again to prominence in the late 1980s when parents camped out in six day long lines to enroll their children in visionary superintendent Richard C Wallace's reinvigorated school Although the historic triangular building was a cornerstone of its North Oakland neighborhood and a showpiece for the city of Pittsburgh officials closed the school in 2008

citing over 50 million in necessary renovations a controversial event that captured national attention Schenley alumnus Jake Oresick tells this story through interviews historical documents and hundreds of first person accounts drawn from a community indelibly tied to the school A memorable important work of local and educational history his book is a case study of desegregation magnet education and the changing nature and legacies of America s oldest public schools

Rethinking School-University Partnerships Prentice T. Chandler,Lisa Barron,2021-05-01 Rethinking School University Partnerships A New Way Forward provides educational leaders in K 12 schools and colleges of education with insight advice and direction into the task of creating partnerships In current times colleges of education and local school districts need each other like never before School districts struggle with pipeline recruitment and retention issues Colleges of education face declining enrollment and a shifting educational landscape that fundamentally changes the way that teachers are trained and what local school districts expect their teachers to be able to do It is with these overlapping constraints and converging interests that partnerships emerge as a foundational strategy for strengthening the education of our teachers With nearly 80 contributors from 16 states and Jamaica representing 39 educational institutions the partnerships described in this book are different from the ways in which colleges of education and school districts have traditionally worked with one another In the past these loose relationships centered primarily on student teaching and or field experience placements In this arrangement the relationship was directed towards ensuring that the local schools were amenable to hosting students from the college of education so that the student candidate could complete the requirements to earn a teaching license In our view this paradigm needs to be enlarged and shifted
