ANALYSIS AND DESIGN

ANALYSIS AND DESIGN

The analysis and design of building structural systems involve several key steps and considerations. The first step is to define the structural system, including the type of columns, beams, and slabs used. This is followed by a detailed analysis of the system under various load conditions, including dead loads, live loads, and wind loads. The analysis results are then used to design the structural components, ensuring they meet the required strength and serviceability criteria. The design process also involves selecting appropriate materials and construction methods. Finally, the completed design is reviewed and approved for construction. The entire process is iterative, with adjustments made as needed based on the results of the analysis and design.
