Teaching Literacy in Urban Schools Barbara Purdum-Cassidy,Lakia M. Scott,2018-03-02 Today s public schools represent greater student diversity than ever before in the history of the United States yet pedagogical approaches as mandated by state education agencies and school districts superimpose mainstream curricula and instructional practices which ultimately disadvantage the academic outcomes of the majority minority African American and Hispanic Latino a students Unfortunately national report findings also heighten the educational crisis that exists for Black and Brown children with regard to reading and writing achievement As a result there is need to deeply explore the relationship between Black and Brown student literacy achievement and educational policy teacher education program curriculum and assessment This book seeks to provide some practical insights guided by conceptual and contextual knowledge by understanding how to teach urban African American and Hispanic Latino students by discussing culturally appropriate instructional strategies that have demonstrated success among African American and Hispanic Latino students. This book will showcase successful models for teaching literacy to urban students through a discussion of topics that include 1 increasing literacy achievement and motivation 2 multicultural literacy practices and 3 early and elementary literacy instruction Journal of the National Cancer Institute ,2008

Image-Guided Radiotherapy for Effective Radiotherapy Delivery Nam Phong Nguyen, Ulf Lennart Karlsson, 2016-04-22 Image-guided radiotherapy (IGRT) is a new radiotherapy technology that combines the rapid dose fall-off associated with intensity-modulated radiotherapy (IMRT) and daily tumor imaging, allowing for high-precision tumor dose delivery and effective sparing of surrounding normal organs. The new radiation technology requires close collaboration between radiologists, nuclear medicine specialists, and radiation oncologists to avoid marginal miss. Modern diagnostic imaging such as positron emission tomography (PET) scans, positron emission tomography with Computed Tomography (PET-CT), and magnetic resonance imaging (MRI) allows the radiation oncologist to target the positive tumor with high accuracy. As the tumor is well visualized during radiation treatment, the margins required to avoid geographic miss can be safely reduced, thus sparing the normal organs from excessive radiation. When the tumor is located close to critical radiosensitive structures such as the spinal cord, IGRT can deliver a high dose of radiation to the tumor and simultaneously decrease treatment toxicity, thus potentially improving cure rates and patient quality of life. During radiotherapy, tumor shrinkage and changes of normal tissues volumes can be detected daily with IGRT. The volume changes in the target volumes and organs at risk often lead to increased radiation dose to the normal tissues, and if left uncorrected, may result in late complications. Adaptive radiotherapy with re-planning during the course of radiotherapy is therefore another advantage of IGRT over the conventional radiotherapy techniques. This new technology of radiotherapy delivery provides the radiation oncologist an effective tool to improve patient quality of life. In the future, radiation dose escalation to the residual tumor may potentially improve survival rates. Because the treatment complexity a great deal of work is required from the dosimetry staff and physicists to ensure quality of care. Preliminary clinical results with IGRT are encouraging but more prospective studies should be performed in the future to assess the effectiveness of IGRT in improving patient quality of life and local control. In this Frontiers Research Topic we encourage submission of original papers and reviews dealing with imaging for radiotherapy planning, the physics and dosimetry associated with IGRT as well as the clinical outcomes for cancer treatment with IGRT for all tumor sites.

Breast Cancer Treatment: An Interdisciplinary Approach Nima Rezaei, 2024-07-19

There are different types of treatment for breast cancer including surgery, chemotherapy, radiotherapy, hormone therapy, immunotherapy, and targeted therapy. Deciding on the types of treatment depends on several factors such as the stage and grade of cancer, biomarkers, and general health of patients. The seventh volume of the Interdisciplinary Cancer Research series entitled Breast Cancer Treatment: An Interdisciplinary Approach publishes comprehensive reviews on different treatment opportunities on breast cancer. An update on treatment of triple negative breast cancer and ductal carcinoma in situ is provided. Ablative breast cancer surgery, radiotherapy, and percutaneous breast cancer treatment are explained. Promising hormone immunotherapy combination as well as targeted therapies for breast cancer is also discussed. This interdisciplinary series is of special value to researchers working on oncology. This is the main concept of Cancer Immunology Project CIP which is a part of Universal Scientific Education and Research Network (USERN). This interdisciplinary book will be of special value to researchers and oncologists who wish to extend their knowledge on breast cancer treatment.
