Seawater in Concrete Mix Hidenori Hamada, Nobuaki Otsuki, Takahiro Nishida, 2021-09-30 In the near future many parts of the world will suffer from a shortage of freshwater. Effective use of seawater in concrete production could therefore become a crucial technology. Seawater in Concrete Mix provides a detailed overview of the fundamental knowledge of concrete engineering that is essential for the usage of seawater mixed concrete. According to the worldwide standard for reinforced concrete (RC), freshwater is typically used in concrete mixing rather than seawater. Yet a potential exists for the extensive use of seawater in concrete especially with the addition of ground granulated blast furnace slag, fly ash or other mineral admixtures. The recent trend toward performance based design makes this alternative more viable. The text is ideal for graduate students, researchers, concrete engineers and all civil engineers who deal with concrete for infrastructure. Hidenori Hamada is Professor of Kyushu University Japan. Nobuaki Otsuki is Professor Emeritus of Tokyo Institute of Technology and was Chairman of the JCI Technical Committee on the use of seawater in concrete. Takahiro Nishida is Senior Researcher of the Japanese National Institute of Maritime Port and Aviation Technology Tools in Fluvial Geomorphology G. Mathias Kondolf, Hervé Piégay, 2016-06-13 Fluvial Geomorphology studies the biophysical processes acting in rivers and the sediment patterns and landforms resulting from them. It is a discipline of synthesis with roots in geology, geography and river engineering and with strong interactions with allied fields such as ecology, engineering and landscape architecture. This book comprehensively reviews tools used in fluvial geomorphology at a level suitable to guide the selection of research methods for a given question. Presenting an integrated approach to the interdisciplinary nature of the subject, it provides guidance for researchers and professionals on the tools available to answer questions on river restoration and management. Thoroughly updated since the first edition in 2003 by experts in their subfields, the book presents state-of-the-art tools that have revolutionized fluvial geomorphology in recent decades such as physical and numerical modelling, remote sensing and GIS, new field techniques, advances in dating, tracking and sourcing, statistical approaches, as well as more traditional methods such as the systems framework, stratigraphic analysis, form and flow characterisation and historical analysis. This book covers five main types of geomorphological questions and their associated tools: historical framework, spatial framework, chemical, physical and biological methods, analysis of processes and forms, and future understanding framework. Provides guidance on advantages and limitations of different tools for different applications, data sources, equipment and supplies needed, and case studies illustrating their application in an integrated perspective. It is an essential resource for researchers and professional geomorphologists, hydrologists, geologists, engineers, planners and ecologists concerned with river management, conservation and restoration. It is a useful supplementary textbook for upper-level undergraduate and graduate courses in Geography, Geology, Environmental Science, Civil and Environmental Engineering, and interdisciplinary courses in river management and restoration.

Coral reef is one of the important ecosystems characterized by high biodiversity and the beauty. Coral reefs around Japan are located at the northern limit composed mainly by fringing reefs along archipelago and easily impacted by human activities. Thus, coral reef studies around Japan have provided important knowledge on basic sciences and conservation studies regarding coral reef ecosystem.
