Committee,1911      Education ,1911      A People's History of Computing in the United States Joy Lisi Rankin,2018-10-08

Silicon Valley gets all the credit for digital creativity but this account of the pre PC world when computing meant more than using mature consumer technology challenges that triumphalism The invention of the personal computer liberated users from corporate mainframes and brought computing into homes But throughout the 1960s and 1970s a diverse group of teachers and students working together on academic computing systems conducted many of the activities we now recognize as personal and social computing Their networks were centered in New Hampshire Minnesota and Illinois but they connected far flung users Joy Rankin draws on detailed records to explore how users exchanged messages programmed music and poems fostered communities and developed computer games like The Oregon Trail These unsung pioneers helped shape our digital world just as much as the inventors garage hobbyists and eccentric billionaires of Palo Alto By imagining computing as an interactive commons the early denizens of the digital realm seeded today s debate about whether the internet should be a public utility and laid the groundwork for the concept of net neutrality Rankin offers a radical precedent for a more democratic digital culture and new models for the next generation of activists educators coders and makers

Aanwinsten van de Centrale Bibliotheek (Queteletfonds) Bibliothèque centrale (Fonds Quetelet),1989      An Age of Accountability John L. Rury,2023-10-13 An Age of Accountability highlights the role of test based accountability as a policy framework in American education from 1970 to 2020 For more than half a century the quest to hold schools and educators accountable for academic achievement has relied almost exclusively on standardized assessment The theory of change embedded in almost all test based accountability programs held that assessment with stipulated consequences could lead to major improvements in schools This was accomplished politically by proclaiming lofty goals of attaining universal proficiency and closing achievement gaps which repeatedly failed to materialize But even after very clear disappointments no other policy framework has emerged to challenge its hegemony The American public today has little confidence in institutions to improve the quality of goods and services they provide especially in the public sector As a consequence many Americans continue to believe that accountability remains a vital necessity even if educators and policy scholars disagree
