it After decades of inquiry and debate there is still no satisfactory answer Are we asking the wrong question Is reality more complex and excellence in science more elusive than many are willing to admit And how should excellence be defined in different parts of the world particularly in lower income countries of the Global South where science is expected to contribute to pressing development issues despite often scarce resources Many wonder whether the Global South is importing with or without consenting the flawed tools for research evaluation from North America and Europe that are not fit for purpose This book takes a critical view of these issues touching on conceptual issues and practical problems that inevitably emerge when excellence is at the center of science systems Emerging from the capacity building work of the Science Granting Councils Initiative in sub Saharan Africa it speaks to scholars as well as to managers and funders of research around the world Confronting sticky problems and uncomfortable truths the chapters contain insights and recommendations that point towards new solutions both for the Global South and the Global North Annual Review of

Equitable Collaboration Between Tor Halvorsen,Jorun Nossum,2017-02-23 Since the 1990s internationalisation has become key for institutions wishing to secure funding for higher education and research For the academic community this strategic shift has had many consequences Priorities have changed and been influenced by new ways of thinking about universities and of measuring their impact in relation to each other and to their social goals Debates are ongoing and hotly contested In this collection a mix of renowned academics and newer voices reflect on some of the realities of international research partnerships They both question and highlight the agency of academics donors and research institutions in the geopolitics of knowledge and power The contributors offer fresh insights on institutional transformation the setting of research agendas and access to research funding while highlighting the dilemmas researchers face when their institutions are vulnerable to state and donor influence Offering a range of perspectives on why academics should collaborate and what for this book will be useful to anyone interested in how scholars are adapting to the realities of international networking and how research institutions are finding innovative ways to make NorthSouth partnerships and collaborations increasingly fair sustainable and mutually beneficial Gender and Practice Vasilikie (Vicky) Demos, Marcia Texler Segal, Kristy E.

Howe, Melanie A. Murphy, Rodney J. Dyer, Stéphane Joost, 2018-08-03 Ecosystems are the stage on which the play of evolution is acted and ecosystems are complex spatially structured and temporally varying The purpose of this Research Topic is to explore critical challenges and opportunities for the transition from landscape genetics to landscape genomics Landscape genetics has focused on the spatial analysis of small genetic datasets typically comprised of less than 20 microsatellite markers taken from clusters of individuals in putative populations or distributed individuals across landscapes The recent emergence of large scale genomic datasets produced by next generation sequencing methods poses tremendous challenge and opportunity to the field Perhaps the greatest is to produce process curate archive and analyze spatially referenced genomic datasets in a way such that research is led by a priori hypotheses regarding how environmental heterogeneity and temporal dynamics interact to affect gene flow and selection The papers in the Research Topic cover a broad range of topics under this area of focus from reviews of the emergence of landscape genetics to best practices in spatial analysis of genetic data The compilation like the emerging field itself is eclectic and illustrates the scope of both the challenges and opportunities of this emerging field Annual Budget Monitoring Report Uganda, 2015 Uganda Jörg Wiegratz, Giuliano
