Philosophy and Memory Traces John Sutton, 1998-03-05 Philosophy and Memory Traces defends two theories of autobiographical memory One is a bewildering historical view of memories as dynamic patterns in fleeting animal spirits nervous fluids which rummaged through the pores of brain and body The other is new connectionism in which memories are stored only superpositionally and reconstructed rather than reproduced Both models argues John Sutton depart from static archival metaphors by employing distributed representation which brings interference and confusion between memory traces Both raise urgent issues about control of the personal past and about relations between self and body Sutton demonstrates the role of bizarre body fluids in moral physiology as philosophers from Descartes and Locke to Coleridge struggled to control their own innards and impose cognitive discipline on the phantasmal chaos of association Going on to defend connectionism against Fodor and critics of passive mental representations he shows how problems of the self are implicated in cognitive science

A Textual Introduction To Social and Political Theory Richard Paul Bellamy, Angus C. Ross, 1996-05-15 This book offers a stimulating new approach to studying social and political theory It combines specially selected extracts from the political classics with original and insightful essays offering a commentary upon them The reader is drawn into a dialogue with the Western political tradition s principal thinkers whose ideas provide a common currency in which to debate the problems facing modern societies Each of the twelve chapters combines extracts from two or in one case three political philosophers on a key political concept with a commentary essay Each chapter does more than just introduce the reader to the classics it also explains via the commentary essay the key concepts of political debate and the historical contexts which led the thinkers to their different understandings of the nature of society
