Section: Making Informed Decisions

Read the passage below and answer the questions that follow.

Forming an opinion about an environmental issue is often difficult and may even seem overwhelming. It helps to have a systematic way of analyzing the issues and deciding what is important. One way to guide yourself through this process is by using a decision-making model. A decision-making model is a conceptual model that provides a systematic process for making decisions.

In a simple decision-making model, the first step is to gather information. In addition to watching news reports and reading newspapers, magazines, and books about environmental issues, you should listen to well-informed people on all sides of an issue. Then consider which values apply to the issue. Explore the consequences of each option. Finally, evaluate all of the information and make a decision.

IDENTIFYING MAIN IDEAS

One reading skill is the ability to identify the main idea of a passage. The main idea is the main focus or key idea. Frequently, a main idea is accompanied by supporting information that offers detailed facts about the main idea.

In the space provided, write the letter of the term or phrase that best answers each question.

- _____ 1. Which of the following can help you when you want to form an opinion or make a decision?

Green Exercise Jo Barton,Rachel Bragg,Carly Wood,Jules Pretty,2016-07-07 The concept of Green Exercise has now been widely adopted and implies a synergistic health benefit of being active in the presence of nature This book provides a balanced overview and synthesis text on all aspects of Green Exercise and integrates evidence from many different disciplines including physiology ecology psychology sociology and the environmental sciences and across a wide range of countries It describes the impact of Green Exercise on human health and well being through all stages of the lifecourse and covers a wide spectrum from cellular processes such as immune function through to facilitating human behavioural change It demonstrates the value of Green Exercise for activity and education purposes in both schools and the workplace as well as its therapeutic properties Green Exercise is an effective intervention for vulnerable groups and promoting healthy ageing with activities including wilderness therapy therapeutic horticulture and the use of forests and water Chapters also integrate cross cutting key themes which are relevant to all stages of the lifecourse and have significantly contributed to the Green Exercise research base such as forest bathing and blue exercise The book also explores the future of Green Exercise the way in which research can be used to influence green design and planning and how health social care and environmental agendas can be integrated to enable Green Exercise to be more widely used as a mechanism for improving health      Children's Environmental Health Research Allen Dearry,Gwen Collman,2000-02      Experiments in Environmental Economics Jason F. Shogren,2018-04-27 This title was first published in 2003 Over the decades experiential methods have become an established research tool in environmental economics Economists working in this area have realised that experimental methods from economics and other disciplines such as psychology and decision theory can be applied to gain insight into the behavioral underpinnings of environmental policy Economic experiments in the lab and field are an attractive tool to address the incentive and contextual questions that arise in environmental policy Experiments have been and continue to be designed to capture the key elements of market and non market choices to test theory for pattern recognition to testbed new institutions and to value public goods including environmental protection This volume collects the most significant papers in the literature that identify the underpinnings of experimental approaches are complemented by works that specifically address the use of experimental economics to identify choice under risk conflict cooperation environmental policy instruments and environmental valuation      Processes, Mechanisms and Solutions in Coastal Wetland to Adapt to Changing Environment Qing Wang, Dongdong Shao,Yu Zhang,Qin Zhu,2025-06-05 Coastal wetlands provide precious ecological services for us like coastal protection carbon storage flooding mitigation production and so on Mangrove saltmarsh sea grass oyster reef and coral reef are typical types of coastal wetland each type has its unique adaptive strategy to climate change through some processes and mechanisms Some of them are well known to us but most are unrecognized as they are far away from our living environment Furthermore in the context of climate change and anthropogenic influence the external disturbance is more complicated and changeable causing the responses of species and the related processes more secluded and unpredictable Therefore the multilevel processes or mechanisms in coastal wetland to adapt to climate change as well as the solutions is urgent and important to face the new challenges Coastal wetlands lie in the transition zone between lands and seas defending us from storms and floodings and providing important and valuable ecosystem services such as carbon stock and biodiversity maintenance However coastal wetlands are vulnerable and are one of the most physically disturbed ecosystems on earth because they are always in hydrodynamic conditions under the interactions among tides waves runoffs and so on Furthermore the combined impacts of climate change and human activities have caused more uncertainties and complexities on the environmental factors which imposed unparalleled impacts on the diversity distribution and ecological performance of coastal wetland ecosystem globally      Children's Books in Print, 2007 ,2006      Forthcoming Books Rose Arny,2003-04      Asthma Sebastian L. Parker,Edmund C. Penning-Rowsell,2021-08-26 Building resilience to the world s increasingly damaging environmental hazards has become a priority This book considers the scientific advances which have been made around the world to enhance this resilience Although resilience is not new it is through the idea of resilience that governments organisations and communities around the world are now seeking to address the rapidly increasing losses that environmental hazards cause so that fewer lives are lost and damage is reduced Alternative ideas and approaches have been helpful in reducing loss but resilience offers a fresh and potentially effective means of reducing it further Adopting a scientific approach and scientific evidence is important in applying the resilience idea in hazard mitigation However the science of resilience is at an immature stage of development with much discussion about the concept and how it should be understood and interpreted Building useful theories remains a challenge although some of the building blocks of theory have been developed More attention has been given to developing indicators and frameworks of resilience which are subsequently applied to measure resilience to hazards such as flooding earthquake and climate change Environmental Hazards and Resilience Theory and Evidence considers the scientific and theoretical challenges of making progress in applying resilience to environmental hazard mitigation and provides examples from around the world including the USA New Zealand China Bangladesh and elsewhere The chapters in this book were originally published in the Environmental Hazards
