It raises the potential for a new and stronger focus on social issues instruction in schools. Contributors include many of the leading experts in the field of social studies education. Issues-centered social studies is an approach to teaching history, government, geography, economics, and other subject-related courses through a focus on persistent social issues. The emphasis is on problematic questions that need to be addressed and investigated in depth to increase social understanding, active participation, and social progress. Questions or issues may address problems of the past, present, or future and involve disagreement over facts, definitions, values, and beliefs arising in the study of any of the social studies disciplines or other aspects of human affairs. The authors and editor believe that this approach should be at the heart of social studies instruction.
