ABSTRACT: Automatic recognition of people is a challenging problem which has received much attention during recent years due to its many applications in different fields. Face recognition is one of those challenging problems and up to date, there is no technique that provides a robust solution to all situations. There are many techniques used for this purpose. Face recognition is an effective means of authenticating a person. In this paper, a face recognition system for personal identification and verification using Principal Component Analysis (PCA) with Back Propagation Neural Networks (BPNN) is proposed. The dimensionality of face image is reduced by the PCA and the recognition is done by the BPNN for face recognition. The system consists of a database of a set of facial patterns for each individual. The characteristic features of pca called 'eigenfaces' are extracted from the stored images, which is combine with Back Propagation Neural Network for subsequent recognition of new images.

I. INTRODUCTION

Face recognition has a large number of applications, including security, person verification, Internet communication, and computer entertainment. Although research in automatic face recognition has been conducted since the 1960s, this problem is still largely unsolved. Recent years have seen significant progress in this area owing to advances in face modelling and analysis techniques. Systems have been developed for face detection and tracking, but reliable face recognition still offers a great challenge to computer vision and pattern recognition researchers. There are several reasons for recent increased interest in face recognition, including rising public concern for security, the need for identity verification in the digital world, and the need for face analysis and modelling techniques in multimedia data management and computer entertainment. Recent advances in automated face analysis, pattern recognition, and machine learning have made it possible to develop automatic face recognition systems to address these applications. In this paper we proposed a mathematical model and computational model of face recognition which is fast, reasonably simple, and accurate in constrained environment. Face recognition using eigenface has been shown to be accurate and fast. When BPNN technique is combine with PCA non-linear face images can be recognised easily. [1][5]
