- Family functions: the activities and arrangements whereby members, including maintenance of the stage, achieve bonding, and interrelated activities, including physical, emotional, psychological, spiritual, family, economic, including parenting, supporting basic needs, supporting self needs, creating and maintaining stable relations, and creating new relations

The following is a list of the major and minor departments for the development and maintenance of the system:

- Behavioral Inhibition: Behavioral inhibition, which is the tendency to show a high level of wariness or fear in response to new or unfamiliar situations, is the most common form of anxiety disorder in children. It is characterized by a child's tendency to avoid or withdraw from new or unfamiliar situations, such as meeting new people, going to school, or traveling.
- Compulsive Disorder: Compulsive disorder is a mental health condition characterized by the presence of obsessive thoughts and compulsive behaviors. Obsessive thoughts are recurrent, intrusive, and unwanted thoughts, images, or urges that cause significant distress. Compulsive behaviors are repetitive, stereotyped actions that the individual feels driven to perform in response to the obsessive thoughts.
