Since 2008, although demo accounts attempt to replicate real markets, they operate in a simulated market environment. As such, there are key differences that distinguish them from real accounts, including but not limited to, the lack of slippage or real-time market liquidity, a delay in pricing, and the execution of some orders which may not be possible in real accounts. The operational experience when executing orders in a demo environment may result in differently executed orders, but it is not intended to be a source of exposure. There may be instances where margin requirements differ from those of live accounts as orders in demo accounts may not always receive full fills of real orders.
