Martin, 2015-06-03 According to the World Health Organization more than 40 million people in the world are affected with dementia To date 60-70% of the cases of dementia are attributed to the Alzheimer's disease AD This neurodegenerative disorder gradually takes place over a period of at least 20 years before the onset of symptoms which are impaired memory apathy and depression The characteristics of AD consist in neurofibrillary tangles intraneuronal aggregates of hyperphosphorylated tau proteins and senile plaques dense extraneuronal deposits composed of amyloid A The other features linked to these two core pathological hallmarks of AD are inflammation oxidative stress progressive synaptic and neuronal loss In past years some of the emerging therapeutic strategies against AD were employed to deal with the pathological hallmarks of the disease Science teams all over the world try to restore the tau phosphorylation equilibrium Their purpose is to interfere with the aggregation of tau and decrease its amount of proteins per se as well Furthermore they are trying either to stimulate the elimination processes of the aggregated tau proteins or to stop the formation of A peptides This could be reached by the stimulation of the classic techniques of protein degradation such as the autophagic pathway or by the targeted immunotherapy In this Research Topic we wish to summarize and review the etiology of AD and the related therapeutic opportunities for the next decades To fully understand the precise mechanisms underlying AD research findings reviews new insights and new approaches include AD and related tauopathies tau phosphorylation balance pharmacological compounds against AD neuroprotection strategies and new therapeutic ways but also risk factors for AD and AD genetic information are included in this issue Emerging Swine Infectious Diseases Tao Lin, Qi Wang, Yanhua Li, Shao-Lun Zhai, 2024-01-10 As major threats to the global swine industry swine infectious diseases caused significant economic losses and potential public health issues During the past three decades many swine infectious diseases emerged in the field such as porcine reproductive and respiratory syndrome virus PRRSV and its novel isolates with distinct pathogenicity high pathogenic variants of porcine epidemic diarrhea virus PEDV and pseudorabies virus PRV and influenza viruses which lead to tremendous economic losses worldwide A few novel pathogens identified recently such as Senecavirus A atypical porcine pestivirus APPV PCV3 PCV4 PDCoV SADS CoV influenza D constitute a new challenge Although significant effects have been made to study these emerging infectious diseases there are still gaps in many aspects such as the pathogenesis mechanisms structure and function of viral proteins protective immunity and viral evolution For disease control new approaches for prevention and treatment of infectious diseases are urgently required To fill these gaps of knowledge we encourage scientists to publish their experimental and theoretical results in the below aspects Genomic structure and function Virus host interaction Viral and or host dependency for virulence and transmissibility of the disease Antiviral countermeasures Vaccine design Disease control programs Self Instruction for Young Gardeners John Claudius Loudon,1847 British Dental Journal ,1905 The Tribune Almanac and Political Register Horace Greeley,John Fitch Cleveland,F.
