Life Sciences Control Test 2014 Grade 11 November:

Life by Algorithms Catherine Besteman, Hugh Gusterson, 2019-05-23 Computerized processes are everywhere in our society. They are the automated phone messaging systems that businesses use to screen calls; the link between student standardized test scores and public schools' access to resources; the algorithms that regulate patient diagnoses and reimbursements to doctors. The storage, sorting, and analysis of massive amounts of information have enabled the automation of decision making at an unprecedented level. Meanwhile, computers have offered a model of cognition that increasingly shapes our approach to the world. The proliferation of robo-processes is the result, as editors Catherine Besteman and Hugh Gusterson observe in this rich and wide-ranging volume, which features contributions from a distinguished cast of scholars in anthropology, communications, international studies, and political science. Although automatic processes are designed to be engines of rational systems, the stories in Life by Algorithms reveal how they can in fact produce absurd, inflexible, or even dangerous outcomes. Joining the call for algorithmic transparency, the contributors bring exceptional sensitivity to everyday sociality into their critique to better understand how the perils of modern technology affect finance, medicine, education, housing, the workplace, food production, public space, and emotions, not as separate problems but as linked manifestations of a deeper defect in the fundamental ordering of our society. Contributors: Catherine Besteman, Alex Blanchette, Robert W. Gehl, Hugh Gusterson, Catherine Lutz, Ann Lutz Fernandez, Joseph Masco, Sally Engle Merry, Keesha M. Middlemass, Noelle Stout, Susan J. Terrio. Empowering Science and Mathematics for Global Competitiveness Yuli Rahmawati, Peter Taylor, 2019-06-07 This conference proceedings focuses on enabling science and mathematics practitioners and citizens to respond to the pressing challenges of global competitiveness and sustainable development by transforming research and teaching of science and mathematics. The proceedings consist of 82 papers presented at the Science and Mathematics International Conference SMIC 2018, organised by the Faculty of Mathematics and Natural Sciences, Universitas Negeri Jakarta, Indonesia. The proceedings are organised in four parts: Science, Science Education, Mathematics, and Mathematics Education. The papers contribute to our understanding of important contemporary issues in science, especially nanotechnology, materials, and environmental science; science education, in particular environmental sustainability, STEM, and STEAM education; 21st-century skills; technology education; and green chemistry and mathematics and its application in statistics, computer science, and mathematics education. Scientific and Technical Aerospace Reports, 1978

Application of Systematic Review Methods in an Overall Strategy for Evaluating Low-Dose Toxicity from Endocrine Active Chemicals National Academies of Sciences, Engineering, and Medicine, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Environmental Studies and Toxicology, Committee on Endocrine-Related Low-Dose Toxicity, 2017-08-14 To safeguard public health, the US Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) must keep abreast of new scientific information and emerging technologies so that it can apply them to regulatory decision making. For decades, the agency has dealt with questions about what animal testing data to use to make predictions about human health hazards how to perform dose response extrapolations how to identify and protect susceptible subpopulations and how to address uncertainties As alternatives to traditional toxicity testing have emerged the agency has been faced with additional questions about how to incorporate data from such tests into its chemical assessments and whether such tests can replace some traditional testing methods Endocrine active chemicals EACs have raised concerns that traditional toxicity testing protocols might be inadequate to identify all potential hazards to human health because they have the ability to modulate normal hormone function and small alterations in hormone concentrations particularly during sensitive life stages can have lasting and significant effects To address concerns about potential human health effects from EACs at low doses this report develops a strategy to evaluate the evidence for such low dose effects Childhood Adversity and Life-course Consequences Cheryl Zlotnick,Naixue Cui,Nadya Golfenshtein,Yang Li,2022-08-05

Marine Ecosystem Restoration (MER) – Challenges and New Horizons Brian Silliman, Avigdor Abelson, Christine Angelini, Gesche Krause, Megan Irene Saunders, Tjisse Van Der Heide, 2023-10-23
Worldwide marine ecosystems have been lost and degraded due to anthropogenic disturbances For example oyster reefs have declined by at least 85% coral reefs by 19% seagrasses by 29% North American salt marshes by 42% and mangroves by 35% from the early 19th century Deepwater reefs and deep sea vents are not immune and have also been reduced in extent in many areas Factors driving these losses include habitat destruction pollution invasive species overfishing trawling mining and more recently climate change effects such as ocean warming species range changes and acidification These habitat declines are occurring at a time when marine waters are being used at or near their maximum productive capacity to meet the contemporary needs of an ever increasing human population Because coastal and marine ecosystems generate some of the richest biodiversity hotspots on Earth and provide critical ecosystem services including storm protection fisheries production and carbon storage over 1 billion US dollars have been spent globally in an attempt to halt and reverse observed declines Early conservation efforts aimed at protecting these valuable and threatened habitats focused on reducing human impacts and physical stressors However with habitat degradation continuing and sometimes increasing in rate it is now clear conservation alone will not be sufficient to protect and reestablish coastal ecosystems Habitat restoration although in existence for many decades has recently been elevated as a new primary strategy to stem and even reverse coastal habitat loss The call for increasing investment in restoration efforts has emerged with significant advances in propagule rearing and dispersion of habitat forming organisms e g oysters seagrasses corals In addition restoration resources are increasingly allocated by governments and or large corporations with the aim to for example fix past landscape engineering efforts that had unintended environmental consequences Such investments are being made to i provide jobs for those unemployed during economic downturns ii restore ecosystems destroyed by natural disasters and stressors iii increase coastal defense in response to increased frequency of intense storms and or iv compensate for pollution and development driven habitat degradation Conservation practitioners have traditionally been skeptical to invest heavily in restoration at large scales because of the high cost per area 10 000 5 000 000 US ha for coastal vs 500 5 000 US ha for terrestrial systems to replant coastal ecosystems and or the high chance that the restored ecosystems will not live long e g outplanted corals For restoration to be effective and employed as a primary method of coastal conservation at relevant scales we must improve its efficiency lower costs and rapidly share and incorporate advances One crucial step will be to identify when and where restoration attempts have been carried out according to state of art ecological theory and gauge their success Another is generating synthesis studies that focus both within and across ecosystems to identify efficiencies adaptations and innovations Work that shows theoretical and methodological innovations in specific ecosystems as well as across systems will be critical to pushing all fields of MER forward Although there is rapidly increasing interest and investment the field of marine ecosystem restoration is just beginning to undergo synthesis Therefore the aim of this Research Topic is to bring together research contributions to help address this synthesis need provide a spotlight for recent innovations enhance our understanding of successful methods in marine ecosystem restoration and promote integration of ecological sociological and engineering theory into restoration practices

Women and Geology

Beth A. Johnson, 2018-07-26 Women have been a part of the story of geology from the beginning but they have struggled to gain professional opportunities equal pay and respect as scientists for decades Some have been dismissed some have been forced to work without pay and some have been denied credit This volume highlights the progress of women in geology including past struggles and how remarkable individuals were able to overcome them current efforts to draw positive attention and perceptions to women in the science and recruitment and mentorship efforts to attract and retain the next generation of women in geology Chapters include the first American women researchers in Antarctica a survey of Hollywood disaster movies and the casting of women as geologists social media campaigns such as 365ScienceSelfies and the stories of the Association for Women Geoscientists and the Earth Science Women s Network and their work to support and mentor women in geology

Sick Schools David V. Anderson,2020-01-10 Who s afraid of for profit education Those who work in non profit or government owned and operated schools Many parents and other stakeholders have been made fearful by this education establishment What s more important to humans nutrition or education Nutrition is more important because it is the prerequisite for other human activities including education What organizations provide food and who pays for the food Food is provided by for profit farmers for profit processors for profit wholesalers and for profit retailers Most food is purchased with the consumers own money but a significant amount is purchased by low income individuals using food stamps Why can t education be provided similarly using education stamps We trust for profit enterprises to provide our food Why can t we trust for profit enterprises to provide K 12 education Fearmongers have frightened us and made us into gullible compliant socialists who despise commercial activities in education Go to the supermarket and ponder its marvelous array of foods and then contemplate how a for profit K 12 education sector would please and amaze its customers

International Corporate Governance Thomas Clarke,2023-08-29 Thomas Clarke s International Corporate Governance offers a panoramic guide to corporate governance and examines the recurring crises in governance and the reform around the world This is a popular classic book but significant changes have been made to this new edition to take account of the continuing impact of the global financial crisis and the wave of regulation development flowing from this the profound consequences of climate change and the urgent need for corporations to respond with the commitment to sustainable value creation Important elements of the work include contemporary governance failures including BP VW Boeing GM Tesla Apple Purdue Pharma and Theranos the ongoing vitality of the diversity of corporate governance across the world digital disruption in capital markets and initiatives to build long term investment the universal impact of financialization and resulting increasing inequality the essential logic of corporate governance and corporate sustainability The textbook contains a wealth of pedagogical material to guide the reader through this complex subject with student questions to help with assessments and new companion website There are 14 new forensic case analyses critically scrutinizing governance failures International Corporate Governance is an essential text for those studying corporate governance at the advanced undergraduate postgraduate or executive level
