Bernoulli's Principle

What is Bernoulli's Principle?

Bernoulli's principle helps explain how an aircraft can fly by using Bernoulli's effect, which states that air flowing through a curved surface is forced to travel faster over the top of the wing than the bottom. This causes the air pressure to be lower on top of the wing than on the bottom, thus creating an upward lift.

How does Bernoulli's Principle create lift on an airplane wing?

As air flows over the curved surface of the wing, it is forced to travel faster over the top than the bottom. This causes the air pressure to be lower on top of the wing than on the bottom, thus creating an upward lift.

The bottom of the wing is generally flat, which causes the air to travel faster over the top than the bottom. This causes the air pressure to be lower on top of the wing than on the bottom, thus creating an upward lift.

For every object in the universe, there is an equal and opposite reaction. This means that for every action, there is an equal and opposite reaction.
