God, Time, and Eternity W.L. Craig,2013-03-14 those who think about time are thinking deeply Those who think about God are thinking even more deeply still Those who try to think about God and time are pressing the very limits of human understanding Undaunted this is precisely the project which we have set for ourselves in this study to try to grasp the nature of divine eternity to understand what is meant by the affirmation that God is eternal to formulate a coherent doctrine of God's relationship with time This study the second installment of a long range research program devoted to a philosophical analysis of the principal attributes of God flows naturally out of my previous exploration of divine omniscience For the most contentious issue with respect to God's being omniscient concerns divine foreknowledge of future contingents such as free acts of human agents The very concept of foreknowledge presupposes that God is temporal and a good many thinkers from Boethius to certain contemporary philosophers have thought to avoid the alleged incompatibility of divine foreknowledge and human freedom by affirming the timelessness of God Thus in examining the complex of issues surrounding the foreknowledge question we found ourselves already immersed in the question of divine eternity
