Agriculture and Rural Society Jan Douwe van der Ploeg, Jingzhong Ye, 2016-05-20 China's agriculture and rural society has undergone rapid changes in recent years. Many poorer farmers and younger people have moved to cities and yet China has an immense challenge to feed a growing and more affluent population. This book provides a bottom up view of China's agriculture showing how the many millions of Chinese peasants make a living. It presents a vivid description of the mechanisms used by rural households to defend and sustain their livelihoods, increase their agricultural production and improve the quality of their lives. The authors examine the newly emerging trajectories of entrepreneurial and capitalist farming and assess whether such alternatives will be able to meet the enormous social, economic and environmental challenges that China faces. The book also explores the paradigm that has underpinned the organisation and development of China's agriculture from ancient times to the present day. This shows the importance of balancing in the Chinese model as compared to the one-sided imposition of continual modernization in the western model. It is argued that such balancing is at the core of the current Sannong policy referring to the three ruralities of food sovereignty, wellbeing for peasant households and an attractive countryside.

Nature of Science for Social Justice Hagop A. Yacoubian, Lena Hansson, 2020-09-08 This edited volume brings closer two contemporary science education research areas: Nature of Science (NOS) and Social Justice (SJ). It starts a dialogue on the characteristics of NOS for SJ with the purpose of advancing the existing discussion and creating new avenues for research. Using a variety of approaches and perspectives, the authors of the different chapters engage in a dialogue on the construct of NOS for SJ, its characteristics as well as ways of addressing it in science classrooms. Issues addressed are related to why a school science aiming at SJ should address NOS, what NOS-related content, skills and attitudes form the basis when aiming at SJ, and how school science can address NOS for SJ. Through a set of theoretical and empirical chapters, the authors suggest answers but they also pose new questions on what NOS for SJ can mean and what issues need to be taken into consideration in future research and practice. Chapter: Nature of Science for Social Justice: Why, What and How is available open access under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License via link.springer.com.

Applied Anthropology Sheena Nahm, Cortney Hughes Rinker, 2015-10-16 This collection brings together recent innovative work in applied and practicing anthropology. Organised around the theme of unexpectedness, it examines some of the novel spaces, topics and methods that anthropologists are involved with. The volume emphasises non-traditional settings and demonstrates the important role of anthropology in addressing some of the pressing issues facing society today. The contributors offer detailed ethnographic examples from their own research and work that give students valuable insight and advice. Drawn mainly from the United States, the case studies illustrate the diverse arenas in which anthropologists operate, from law and finance to education and health care. Simultaneous consideration is given to practical applications, theoretical reflections and professional experiences.
