Artful Truths Helena de Bres,2021-09-10 From social media to the return of the personal essay to the rise of autofiction it seems we inhabit an era of unprecedented self display But self display in its literary form the memoir has been around for ages always freighted with formal and philosophical complexity from Augustine s Confessions on In this book philosopher Helena de Bres tackles the philosophy of memoir What is memoir Is all memoir really fiction Should memoirists aim to tell the truth What do memoirists owe the people they write about And finally Why write a memoir at all Social Domains of Truth Lambert Zuidervaat,2023-03-10 Truth is in trouble In response this book presents a new conception of truth It recognizes that prominent philosophers have questioned whether the idea of truth is important Some have asked why we even need it Their questions reinforce broader trends in Western society where many wonder whether or why we should pursue truth Indeed some pundits say we have become a post truth society Yet there are good reasons not to embrace the cultural Zeitgeist or go with the philosophical flow reasons to regard truth as a substantive and socially significant idea This book explains why First it argues that propositional truth is only one kind of truth an important kind but not all important Then it shows how propositional truth belongs to the more comprehensive process of truth as a whole This process is a dynamic correlation between human fidelity to societal principles and a life giving disclosure of society The correlation comes to expression in distinct social domains of truth where either propositional or nonpropositional truth is primary The final chapters lay out five such domains science politics art religion and philosophy Anyone who cares about the future of truth in society will want to read this pathbreaking book Truth from a Lie Margaret Key,2011-05-05 Critics typically regard Abe Kobo 1924 93 as writing against realism due to his avant garde aesthetics that challenged the Naturalist realism dominating the literary mainstream and the Socialist realism of the orthodox Left in postwar Japan He considered his work thoroughly realist however and starting in the early 1950s in a series of avant garde art and literary groups he championed the possibility of a vital contemporary realism that challenged the reader to question the reality represented in the text through increasingly self conscious writing strategies Through a reassessment of the texts in which he worked out his theory of realism this study traces the development of his commitment to making truth from a lie to fiction drama and reportage that openly display their artifice Key argues that the reflexivity of Abe s texts which lay bare their own processes of artificial construction in order to reflect how our everyday sense of reality is constructed and maintained created a critical space for metatextual ideas that were not acknowledged by the literary establishment of his time and have yet to be recognized by critics today Undergirding his theory and practice of realism was a critique of conventional documentary and of the classic detective story The texts examined here expose the degree to which the documentarian and the detective are active fabricators of meaning rather than neutral observers of fact By paying close attention to the tension between the documentary and the fictive in Abe s works Key draws out the ethical implications of his documentary approach arguing persuasively that the documentary qualities of his writing such as its valorization of objectivity over psychologism and the realm of concrete things over abstraction are strategies for challenging the dominant assumptions about what constitutes good ethics and good art as well as the relationship between these two spheres Truth from a Lie explores the ways in which Abe put documentary and the de
